District News: ParentVUE, Grades and Conferences. This Thursday marks the end of the first quarter and first official grading period. Teachers will be preparing grades and either sending them home with students, sharing them at conferences, or mailing them. Parent conferences will then take place on November 18 & 19 based on individual school schedules. Having the conferences later this year should give parents and teachers more information upon which to base student progress and areas of focus for the remainder of the semester. ParentVUE is still rolling out to schools throughout the District and we understand there are a variety of experiences being had. Please keep in mind this is a huge system shift and learning curve for our staff, and each will have their own trajectory for full utilization. All grade information will be posted in the system*, however there is currently no requirement that teachers use the Classroom Website area to post homework assignments, so some may still be using external websites for that purpose. Please check with your child's teachers to learn where and how students can access homework information. Your understanding and patience is much appreciated! (*For elementary students, only report card grades will be available in the system this year.)

Calendar alerts: Election Day 11/5; end of 1st quarter 11/7; no school, all students, 11/8—grade prep—& 11/11—Veterans Day.
