

EDUCATION

202300 Pathway2Teaching: Introduction to Socially Just Education

Grade(s): 11-12 Credit: .5 Semester Term(s): 1 & 2

CITS

This course examines teaching as a career and the foundations of our educational system. Students will explore the sociopolitical context related to schools, communities, and teaching while providing an overview of such topics as school culture, diversity, ethnicity, and social realities in American schools. Students will learn research skills by reviewing and analyzing achievement data to generate questions, offer suggestions, and engage in critical dialogue about educational topics.

202310 (CITS) Pathway2Teaching: Introduction to Socially Just Education

Prerequisite: Pathways 2 Teaching

Grade(s): 11-12 Credit: .5 Semester Term(s): 1 & 2

CTE, CITS

This course is a continuation of Pathways2Teaching and examines teaching as a career and the foundations of our educational system. Students will continue to explore the sociopolitical context related to schools, communities, and teaching while providing an overview of such topics as school culture, diversity, ethnicity, and social realities in American schools. Students will learn research skills by reviewing and analyzing achievement data to generate questions, offer suggestions, and engage in critical dialogue about educational topics.