

Course Name: Spanish V

Prerequisite: Spanish IV Academic or Spanish IV Accelerated

Course Code #: H5412

Level: Academic

Year: 5X

Credits: 5

Course Description: In this culminating course, students will continue their study of the Spanish language and culture with an emphasis on more advanced situational vocabulary, conversations, content and structures. Thematic units that include authentic products of the target culture, such as films, literature, music, or works of art, will serve as a springboard to develop and deepen students' cultural perspectives and understandings. Students will apply more creative spoken and written language as they explore and analyze topics of a more sophisticated nature. Previously acquired language skills will be reinforced and fine-tuned so that students demonstrate a language proficiency at the intermediate-mid level.

Throughout the course emphasis is placed on using the language communicatively in authentic situations. Spanish will be used at a target of 90% of the time by the instructor as he/she leads the class through student-centered activities actively that engage the learners in producing Spanish in meaningful contexts.

Course Proficiencies: Students who successfully complete this course will have developed the ability to communicate at the intermediate-mid proficiency level in three modes of communication:

- Interpretive - the ability to understand spoken and written communication within appropriate cultural contexts;
- Interpersonal - the ability to engage in direct oral and/or written communication with others; and
- Presentational - the ability to present, orally and/or in writing, information, concepts and ideas to an audience of listeners or readers with whom there is no immediate interaction.

In addition, students will have developed Intercultural Communication skills at the intermediate proficiency level. The American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages has defined these intermediate skills in terms of "Can-Do" statements. In this course students will target the following "Can-Do" statements for Intercultural Communication:

- In my own and other cultures, I can make comparisons between products and practices to help me understand perspectives.
- I can interact at a functional level in some familiar contexts.

Lastly, students will acquire language skills in the five areas outlined in the National Standards for Learning Languages: Communication, Cultures, Connections, Comparisons, and Communities, also known as The Five C's of world language education.

Alignment to New Jersey Student Learning Standards:

The New Jersey Student Learning Standards include Preschool Teaching and Learning Standards, as well as nine K-12 standards for the following content areas. These areas include: 21st Century Life and Careers, Comprehensive Health and Physical Education, English Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies, Technology, Visual and Performing Arts and World Languages. The standard for language learning in New Jersey reinforces the reading, writing, speaking and listening skills that are targeted across the standards for each content area.

The 2014 New Jersey Student Learning Standard for World Languages is as follows:

7.1 All students will be able to use a world language in addition to English to engage in meaningful conversation, to understand and interpret spoken and written language, and to present information, concepts, and ideas, while also gaining an understanding of the perspectives of other cultures. Through language study, they will make connections with other content areas, compare the language and culture studied with their own, and participate in home and global communities.

This standard is further divided into proficiency levels and three strands, one for each mode of communication. The proficiency levels are in line with the national performance descriptors as released by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign languages. These guidelines indicate six different levels of proficiency that can be expected at the K-12 level of language learning. Throughout the course, students will be working to demonstrate proficiency at the Intermediate Mid level in all three modes of communication including: interpretive communication, interpersonal communication and presentational communication. The specific standards for this course are outlined below within in each mode of communication.
