

The screenshot displays the Varsity Tutors interface. At the top, there is a toolbar with icons for Select, Point, Draw, Type, Math, Stickers, Arrows, Write, and Practice. Below the toolbar, a lesson titled "Transitive Verb + Direct Object" is shown. The lesson includes examples: "Alicia wrote a love poem on a restaurant note" and "Antonio eats lima beans drenched in brown gravy". Definitions are provided: "Wrote = transitive verb; poem = direct object." and "Eats = transitive verb; lima beans = direct object." To the left, there are two video feeds: one of a female tutor and one of a young male student. To the right, there are several subject-specific resource cards: "Creative Writing", "Middle School Math", and "StarCourse". A "Chat with a Tutor" window is also visible, asking "Can you help me understand polynomials?" with a "Submit a Question" button. At the bottom left, there is a "Coding 101" card with a code icon.
