SECTION I: INTRODUCTION

MISSION STATEMENT

Our students will be prepared for and eager to accept the academic, occupational, personal and practical challenges of life in a dynamic global environment.

WELCOME LETTER

Welcome 2023-2024 Substitutes!

In the Issaquah School District, we are committed to providing the best and highest quality education to our students. Thank you for joining our team and helping us in that endeavor.

We sincerely hope that your experience as a valued educator is both pleasurable for you and enriching for the students you serve. We aim to partner with you to ensure student learning despite the absence of the certificated staff. We expect you will employ your expertise and experience to enrich the classrooms where you work with a diverse array of students.

We are also excited that our contract allows us to offer competitive pay for your service. Having reliable, fully-qualified professional substitutes in our classrooms has always been a priority in the Issaquah School District.

We are here to help you succeed in this role. The one-hour orientation is but one part of the support available for you. With the VISION of Superintendent, Heather Tow-Yick, the DIRECTION of Assistant Superintendent of Human Resources, Donna Hood, the SUPERVISION of HR Director, Carleen Pfeiffer and the GUIDANCE of Human Resources Certificated Specialist, Alyssa Xiong and Substitute Services Specialist, Patricia Neill, we hope to support you so that your experience as a certificated substitute in the Issaquah School District is a rewarding and lasting one.

With input from Administrators, Assistants to the Principal, certificated and emergency substitutes, as well as certificated staff, this Certificated Substitute Handbook has been created to outline the process for your successful work in our district.

Good luck this year!

Sincerely,

Tricia Neill

HR Substitute Services Specialist

DAILY RESPONSIBILITIES

Remember that the role as certificated substitute is an extension of the learning the staff member has initiated with the students. The intent should be to maintain a welcoming, supportive, and academically demanding standard to help students meet the expectations that have been set.

Getting to the school

Once you have your school assignment, consider the day of the week and consult the school bell schedules. Please notice Wednesday assignments are shorter and that middle and high schools start later on Wednesdays.

Please also see the details for where to park in Appendix 8 so you can know where to go once you arrive at the school. Plan to leave home to arrive at school with plenty of time to spare.

Arriving at the school

It is important to be on time to your assignment. Arriving late often means that you will be delayed in traffic as parents are dropping off their students for school. A late arrival makes things difficult for you, the school staff, and especially the students.

Once you arrive, go directly to the main office and find the Assistant to the Principal to check in. Write your name on the sign-in sheet (this sheet is used by payroll to verify your work). This person will be your point-of-contact at the school and will be a great resource for you while you are there.

Be as efficient as possible while checking in since the Assistant to the Principal is required to check in all of the substitutes in the building. The Assistant to the Principal has a lot to do – as do you – before school starts.

Before you leave the office, inquire if there are any extra duties, activities, or assemblies that may modify the schedule for the day and check to make sure you have the following:

- Keys
- The day's bell schedule
- Room assignment(s) and a map of the school
- Attendance sheets
- A seating chart (if one exists)
- Sub plans left by the certificated staff member

Your first thought after checking in should be finding and reading the sub plan left by the certificated staff member. If you do not see it, ask the Assistant to the Principal before you leave the office. If you cannot speak with them, check to see if it was included in the Sub Online posting, and head to the classroom and look for it on the teaching station near the document camera.

Once you have the sub plans, skim them to see if copies need to be made or if materials need to be brought to the classroom. If you need copies, look for the copy code and go make the copies. Typically, the copier is located in a work room off the main office. If you cannot find the copy code, ask the Assistant to the Principal. Once you're done with these tasks, head to the classroom.

Setting up for the day

In terms of professional expectations, remember that you will not be on your cell phone during the day. The expectation for all staff is to stay off social media and be engaged in the activities that students are doing. In addition, please know that State law mandates that no photographs or video be taken of students during the school day. It is strongly recommended that you leave your phone in your bag during class time. You may choose to be on social media or use the computer for personal use during lunch or during a preparatory period.

Additionally, it is an expectation that you maintain possession of the classroom keys throughout the day and ensure that no one else has access to them – do not hand them to a student for any reason. Similarly, you should lock the classroom when not in use, and make sure that when students are present you do not leave the room for convenience, only in an emergency. Always ensure that the room is locked or that you have communicated with another nearby adult who can monitor the room. It is also essential to not share any passwords or the copy code given to you by the certificated staff member or the Assistant to the Principal.

It is beneficial to check in with neighboring staff for a brief minute prior to setting up. It is important to know the names of those next to you in case you need their help or have a question for them. Introduce yourself and explain your role for the day.

Before setting up for the day, familiarize yourself with the classroom. Are there multiple exits? Do all the doors work? Do they lock? Are there blinds for the windows? How will you secure the room in an emergency drill? Is the Emergency Backpack underneath the sink? Have any distracting (or dangerous) materials been left in the room? What is your evacuation route in the case of an earthquake? Notice the emergency evacuation route by the exit door and straighten up as needed without changing the seating in the room. Safety first.

Take a brief moment and think through the challenges in the case of an emergency (for more information regarding Emergency Procedures, please see Appendix 7). Consider how will you both calm and protect the students. In the rare event of a lockdown, please remember that your first priority is the safety of the students. Look into the hallway and bring any nearby students into the classroom, then lock the door(s), close the blinds, and turn out the lights. Students should be well versed in the protocols. Help them remain calm, quiet, and hide safely.

Preparing for instruction

As you prepare to lead the class for the day, do not lose sight of the importance of classroom management and safety in the functioning of a great learning environment. The first priority in the room should be student safety. Your effort should be to maintain an environment where students do not:

- a. throw, toss, or send projectiles across the room;
- b. provoke each other through physical interaction like poking, prodding, or touching;
- c. make others uncomfortable through physical or verbal means.

Once you have settled into the room, re-read the lesson plan for the day (remember, the emergency sub plan is only to be used in the event that there has been no other plan left) and look for the directions for you and for the students.

Consider how you will communicate these instructions to the students. Will you write them? Where? Will you use the whiteboard? The projector? Do you know how to work it?

Be sure to notice any students named in the lesson plan so you can accommodate their needs. It is also important to note that you are legally obligated to maintain the confidentiality of the 504 accommodations and any health/allergy information left in your care by the certificated staff member. Do not let students or TA's see this information.

Logging into the computer

To log into the computer at any school, use the following credentials:

Username: District\ISDSUB

Password: Forward!22

*Please note: The Issaquah School District reserves the right to review all computer access.

To access the WiFi network at any school, use the following credentials:

Username: internet Password: guestaccess

Set any devices to access the WiFi network. If time allows, pull up the staff member's web page from the Web Pages link on the school website. This may give you a context both for what the students have been learning and also for what the expectations are in the class. At the secondary level, the staff member may even leave the day's expectations for the students on the class website so everyone is on the same page.

It is good practice to write your name on the whiteboard so students can refer to you respectfully. Consider whether you need to write the bell schedule on the whiteboard to help with the day's transitions between classes or activities. Lastly, look for a seating chart and consider whether or not you will publish it under the document camera at the beginning of each class.

Locate the seating charts. For elementary students, the name tags are on their desks. For middle and high school students, the seating chart with names and photos or a drawing of seating charts with student names are often available near the teaching station. Enforce seating assignments to improve classroom management and to ensure those students who need preferential seating have access to it.

Instruction reminders and strategies

Once it is time for class to begin, greet students at the door as they arrive. Smile and welcome them to class as you encourage them to sit in their assigned seats so you can take attendance efficiently. Research suggests that greeting students as they enter reduces the number of behavior issues during the class. Know the bell schedule and start on time. Be aware that the bell may not always ring between classes.

As you get started, a few simple things will set you on a successful path:

1. Start on time
2. Ask for, wait for, and get their attention
3. Introduce yourself briefly and include things that bolster your credibility in the classroom
 - a. Recognize that some students would love to derail the lesson and make learning about you the purpose of the class. Don't fall for it. Be brief and then...
4. Explain your expectations for the classroom – clarify the behaviors you would like to see
 - a. Explain the steps that should happen before they go to the bathroom
 - b. Explain the ways that students should be interacting and who they should be working with
5. Explain the lesson plan that the staff member has laid out for the students

As you explain the lesson plan for students, pay particular attention to the expectation as to what should be completed by the end of class. Note also whether it should be collected by the end of the day.

All of the five (5) steps to start each class should happen in the first five (5) minutes of class so that students have time to work. Before they begin work, take note of who is absent, who was tardy, and then mark the attendance sheet. At the elementary level, be sure to get a lunch count (how many students are ordering which lunch option) as soon as you have completed taking attendance. The attendance and lunch count must be taken to the office by a responsible student as soon as possible at the start of the day.

During class, keep a bathroom log so you can know which students left the room and how long they were gone. Please include a comment in your notes to the certificated staff member if a student was out of class more than an appropriate amount of time while using the bathroom. If a student asked to see the nurse, follow up with the nurse to ensure that the student made it there and is safe.

After students have begun working, circulate around the room and engage students in the work they have been assigned to do (not engaging them in what they 'like' to do, or what they think about other topics). Help the students be productive learners. Set aside the desire to be personally engaging with students in order to prioritize their need to be productive and engaged in their learning.

During instruction, help students keep track of time and make transitions between activities so that they can be accomplish all that needs to be completed during the period. Consider whether you should put the duration for different activities on the whiteboard. Which step should be completed by what time? Although timekeeping is important, prioritize learning.

At the secondary level, a minute or two (not five or ten) prior to the end of class, remind students of what they are to turn in to you, ask them to help you straighten the room and return any books/materials to their proper place within the room.

Then, collect any work assigned by the staff member, walk the last student to the door, and start the process again. At the elementary level, help the students transition successfully from class to specialists, recess, or lunch by giving them a five minute and one-minute warning prior to transitioning which gives them the time they need to turn in work and clean up.

Before you leave

When done with the last class, script a review of each of period that day (secondary level) or each subject/specialist that day (elementary level) and leave your contact information on the note so that the staff member could reach out to you with questions. Include the general tone, productivity, and attendance for each class period (secondary) or each subject/specialist (elementary) in this note. Leave the note where the sub plans were left or in the certificated staff member's mailbox in the main office. Then, be sure to straighten up the room to leave it as it was when you arrived.

Turn in your attendance for the day (secondary) as well as the entire Sub Packet that the Assistant to the Principal gave you upon your arrival. Do not forget to leave the classroom keys at the school. You may leave the school only when your contracted day ends.

COMPENSATION & PAYROLL INFORMATION

Certificated substitutes are paid for the actual number of hours (not days) taught. Please refer to the chart below for current certificated substitute pay rates. Two (2) half days in the same day will be considered a full day pay.

PAID SICK LEAVE

You are entitled to accrue paid sick leave as of August 15, 2020. This leave will accrue at one (1) hour of paid sick leave for every forty (40) hours you have worked. You may use this accrued paid sick leave for the following reasons as outlined in RCW 49.46.210(1)(b) and (c):

- To care for yourself or a family member;
- When you or a family member is the victim of sexual assault, domestic violence, or stalking; and
- In the event our business or your child's school or place of care is closed by order of a public official for any health-related reason.

Please contact the Substitute Services Specialist, Tricia Neill, at neillp@issaquah.wednet.edu or 425-837-7062 to access your accrued sick leave.

Accrued, unused paid sick leave balances of forty (40) hours or less will be carried over to the following year. Retaliation against you by the District for using paid sick leave for authorized purposes, or for the exercise of any rights under the Minimum Wage Act (chapter 49.46 RCW) is prohibited.

APPENDIX 2: NOTICE OF DISCLAIMER

Substitute employment is an at-will relationship between the Issaquah School District and the substitute employee. Due to the at-will nature of this relationship, it may be terminated at any time by either party. Accepting substitute work is by no means an offer of permanent and/or on-going employment. Additionally, nothing in employee manuals, personnel policies, employment documentation, substitute handbooks, or oral communication shall be deemed to create an employment contract or to modify this at-will relationship.

APPENDIX 3: EMERGENCY SUBSTITUTES

Emergency certificated substitutes are a valuable part of our district. However, Washington Administrative Code (WAC) and the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction place certain limitations on the use of emergency substitutes in school districts. WAC 181-79-231 states:

As defined by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, WAC181-79A231 (4A), and outlined in the Emergency Substitute Certificate; “....persons with an emergency substitute certificate may be assigned once the list of otherwise qualified substitutes has been exhausted.”

Therefore, emergency substitutes are not to be prearranged by contracted certificated staff members. Emergency substitutes will need to wait for the morning phone calls by the substitute office.

APPENDIX 4: UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Certificated substitutes are ineligible for unemployment compensation provided they are given assurance on continuing employment in the same or similar position for the following school year. Issaquah School District gives such written assurance for the following year.

APPENDIX 5: SCHEDULE ERRORS AND PREP PERIODS

There will be times when subs are assigned to a job and it is in error. If you have arrived at a school to discover that there is no assignment for you, you will be given the following choices:

1. You can call the sub office they will try to find you another assignment.
2. You can go home for an unpaid day.
3. You can stay at the school and perform assigned duties. In this case you will be paid for a 1/2 day.

If you have a full day assignment where you have free periods, the Assistant to the Principal can ask you to cover classes or the library during this time since you are paid for a full day. If you choose or are asked to cover a class for another certificated staff member on your prep period, you will be paid extra for that time. The Assistant to the Principal will have you sign a compensation form for that extra period.

APPENDIX 6: CHANGE OF ASSIGNMENT

Administrators may change the assignment of substitutes to fit the educational needs within their building.

APPENDIX 7: EMERGENCY PROCEDURES

You have received training regarding all Safety and Emergency Preparedness procedures as part of your required SafeSchools trainings. Should you need to refer back to these procedures, they are available by logging into SafeSchools.
