

DPC Meeting
January 13, 2020

Malinda Golden started off the January 13th DPC meeting at 5:05 pm with Good Things. Dr. Bryan Hallmark then discussed the differences between the two calendar options that were proposed to the community and staff before the Christmas break. DPC members were then asked to vote for which calendar they would like presented to the board for approval. Those that represent campuses were asked to get their feedback before voting. Calendar A is the option that will go in front of the board for approval.

Committee members were then asked to split up into groups according to which publication they chose to read at November's meeting. They were asked to review what they had read and share any insights gained with their group.

Committee members were then asked to get with people who had read the other two articles and discuss their findings. Some of the things that were taken away were:

- "What can we do to appropriately advocate for our students"
- "Average does not exist"
- "We need to make our students independent learners"
- "Teach students to advocate for themselves"
- "Collectively we all want better things for our students and community"
- "The work will take time and it will be a difficult path. You have to go through the turbulence to get to the good ideas"

Dr. Golden then handed out a form for members to list what they know about curriculum, what they want to know about curriculum, and what they have learned about curriculum. Their answers will be discussed at the next DPC meeting.

We will be having an additional DPC meeting in February. A date will be decided and sent to the committee members.
