North High School is hosting the Plan Your Future event for its seniors on Wednesday to help them prepare for life after graduation. The event will feature a counselor presentation; an alumni panel; and a college, military, and workforce fair.

During the counselor panel, North's school counselors will present information about post-secondary options, review standardized tests required for various options, and give the seniors resources for where to find more important information.

The alumni panel will feature recent graduates who have taken a variety of paths after high school, including attending a four-year college, two-year college, out-of-state college, or private college; doing an apprenticeship; entering the military; or taking a gap year. They will discuss why they chose their path, what they would have done differently, and important lessons they learned. They will then answer questions from the seniors.

The seniors will finish the afternoon with an opportunity to meet representatives from colleges, the military, and local businesses during the College, Military, and Workforce Fair. Organizations represented at the fair will include:
