Horace Mann-Roosevelt Elementary School is hosting the HMR Family Math Night at the Horace Mann campus on Thursday. Students and their families will play math games, receive math tips, and create math games they can take home.

At Math Night, students and their families will move from station to station participating in math games from the Nifty Numbers math kit. They will learn to recognize patterns by creating bracelets; play dice games to understand greater-than and less-than and odd and even numbers; play with pattern blocks to learn beginning fractions; explore base 10 numbers by thinking through clues; and more.

They will also create their own custom math board games to take home. These board games will help to reinforce the lessons learned at Math Night and provide the students to continue growing as mathematicians into the future.
