ONLINE CLASSROOM: LIVE TUTORING, WHITEBOARD, & CHAT

FULLY WEB-BASED

The Online Classroom runs right in the student's web browser, so there are no required plugins or special hardware/software required for full functionality

INTERACTIVE WHITEBOARD

Students and tutors solve problems together by drawing, importing images and other content, or using Tutor.com's library of drag-and-drop shapes, symbols and commonly-used math/science formulae
