By 1986, 14 states had already declared March as Women's History Month. This momentum and state-by-state action was used as the rational to lobby Congress to declare the entire month of March 1987 as National Women's History Month. In 1987, Congress declared March as National Women's History Month in perpetuity. A special Presidential Proclamation is issued every year which honor the extraordinary achievements of American women.

Author Spotlight Suzanne Collins

The author for the month of March is Suzanne Collins. Collins was born on August 10, 1962 in Hartford, CT. The youngest of four children of a military family, Collins moved many times during childhood. Her family finally settled in the South and she graduated from, The Alabama School of Fine Arts, in 1980. In 1985 she graduated from Indiana University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in theater and telecommunications. Later she earned a Masters in dramatic writing from New York University.

She first began her writing career in the 1990's with the sitcom Hi Honey, I'm Home and then youth oriented programs for the Nickelodeon network. She was also credited as head writer for the PBS series Clifford's Puppy Days. While she wrote for television, she developed her first novel, Gregor The Overlander 2003-she wrote four additional books to what became known as the Overland Chronicles (2004-2007). Although the Overland Chronicles put her name on the map as a professional writer, her next series of stories, The Hunger Games trilogy brought her not only commercial success, but celebrity status. The Hunger Games 2008, Catching Fire 2009, and Mockingjay 2010 sold more than 100 million copies worldwide. These books were later adapted into highly profitable motion pictures grossing more than $700 million for each film. In addition to movies and series writing, Collins also continued to write children's books which included When Charlie McButton Lost Power 2007 and When Charlie McButton Gained Power 2009. In 2013 Collins penned the autobiographical book, Year of the Jungle.

Collins married Charles "Cap" Pryor 1992-2015 and the couple had two children, Charlie and Isabel. She currently resides in Sandy Hook, CT. She is Amazon.com best selling author of all time.
