

AP Math Instructional Materials Review Committee
January 8, 2020 3:30pm - 6:30pm

Introductions

Norms

We will...

- be fully present.
- be open to new ideas.
- invite and welcome the contributions of every member.
- respect one another and maintain a collegial, friendly atmosphere.
- identify issues that can be decided by consensus, and will establish consensus by determining the will of the group.
- keep that which is shared in trust, confidential.

Consensus

Consensus decision-making is a group decision-making process that seeks consent of all participants where everyone's opinions are heard and understood. It is an acceptable resolution; one that can be supported, even if it is not the "first choice" or "favorite" of each individual.

Consensus is...

- consenting to a proposal because group members choose to cooperate with the direction of the group rather than insist on their personal preference.
- "Is this proposal something you can live with?" While group members may be willing to go along with a proposal, they do not actually need to favor it above another choice.
- to "consent". This means that even if group members disagree, there is still overall consent to move forward in order to settle the issue.

Successful instructional materials review committees commit to:

- Review current Arizona Math State Standards.
- Research best practice recommendations of what materials/resources and instruction should look like to support learning of those standards.
- Identify curricular/material "gaps" or needs in current resources.
- Identify instructional materials to match District needs that are consistent with recommendations from research. Consider open source materials, digital resources, unit development by teachers, and possible adoption/RFP.
- Participate in the implementation and monitoring of new resources/materials.

Writing Criteria- Break out groups
