

Speech Sound Practice

If your child works on a particular speech sound, here are some fun ideas to incorporate practice at home!

Activity 1 – Play a board game with your child. In order for your child to take a turn, have him/her say a word with his/her sound and put that word in a sentence. If you do not have board games, then have your child say a word with his/her sound and put that word in a sentence to earn 2 minutes of free time on a video game or Ipad.

Activity 2 – Have your child go around the house or take a walk outside and find items with his/her speech sound. Then have your child say the words using their speech sound correctly and put each word in a sentence.

Activity 3 – Read a book together! For younger readers or children not yet reading chapter books, have your child make a sentence about each page of his/her book. Pick out target speech sounds and say the sound and use it in a sentence. For children reading chapter books, have your child find words with his/her target speech sound while reading and use it in a sentence.

Activity 4 – Play Hangman with your child using words with his/her target speech sound.
