Over 125 years of C⁴ experience! That's what you get with this four person powerhouse of Darin Johnson, Gene Hack, Larry Nordman, and Mike Metz. The four men reunited at the Barcon Builders' jobsite where current students are continuing to make their imprint in the community through opportunities provided in the C⁴ Construction Technology and Architecture classes. This reunion gave retired C⁴ Building Trades teacher Larry Nordman a chance to catch up with his former student and current C⁴ Construction teacher Mike Metz. Mr. Nordman must have been proud to see that his class over 40 years ago laid the foundation for Mr. Metz's career!

Four-legged, furry friends stood out among the hundreds of students entering the doors at Columbus East High School in late November. First and second year Veterinary students learned restraining, bathing, and grooming techniques. Instructor Amanda Rogers was excited to provide her students with this hands-on activity with live animals! Experiences such as these equip our students to be confident, valuable assets to local businesses when they are placed on job sites.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT
Malaki Colwell
Grade 12, Columbus East

Malaki Colwell made a commitment to the Precision Machining career pathway his sophomore year and three years later he proudly displays one of his own creations: a machinist vise that will undoubtedly be passed down in his family for many generations. When Malaki enters the workforce, he will be a step ahead of his co-workers because of his experiential training with C⁴.

It's so good to be back – stay tuned for next week's edition!
