Kudos to members of the C⁴ Ambassador Leadership Team for their contribution at the Leadership Bartholomew County meeting this month. Several students spoke about their pathways, classes, and what C⁴ means to them. They did an excellent job answering tough questions and conveying the amazing opportunities C⁴ offers. Mateo Mendez reflected, “The experience was intimidating, but an awesome opportunity to be a part of an adult leadership group and meeting.”

PLTW Biomedical Innovation students wrapped up their human physiology projects this week. They came up with a hypothesis, did experimental labs and research, and made conclusions from their results. Working in small groups, they created professional posters and crafted their presentations. Each group presented their research in front of a panel of volunteer judges from the community. The judges were impressed with the students’ work.

Columbus East has had a few challenging days recently, between power outages and the networks going down. Mr. Hartman’s Business class put their skills and resourcefulness to the test in a mean game of Monopoly. Not just a “game,” though – before starting, they discussed how small businesses can get off the ground and the students kept a ledger during the gameplay to track their accounting.

“Don’t pass Go without collecting $200!”
