C<sup>4</sup> recently hosted a lunch for 23 former staff members in celebration of Career and Technical Education month. Culinary Arts students developed and served the menu of homemade pimento cheese with homemade crackers, Southern fried chicken with cornbread waffles (topped with C<sup>4</sup> maple syrup, which they boiled down from sap), ending with dessert of homemade banana pudding and homemade vanilla wafers. There were a lot of memories and history shared as the attendees enjoyed each other's company. Today's C<sup>4</sup> is built upon the foundation that these prior employees created and their work is greatly appreciated.

C<sup>4</sup> was contacted by a community member about replacing a food pantry on 9th St. that had been damaged. They kindly offered to donate the materials for the project and two Construction students accepted the challenge. Gus Gaylord (10th grade) & Ethan Walter (11th grade) took a design and ran with it. Both students are in Construction Trades I class. It was an amazing experience for the boys: starting a project in the shop, working on it for over a month, and installing it for the public to use. Jeff Metz (C<sup>4</sup> Graphic Design teacher) laser engraved the phrase "Hunger CAN Kick the Can" on a decorative panel. All materials for the project were donated for a great cause!

Gus' dad, Bajorn Gaylord, also lent a hand for the installation.
