

Dear Families/Caregivers,

Being kind demonstrates respect. Respect provides us with a sense of belonging. We show and are shown respect through the way we talk and act toward others and how they talk and act toward us.

We have been learning how to identify respectful behavior. Here are some ways we show respect to others:

- being kind;
- being polite;
- being fair; and
- asking to borrow something instead of just taking it.

Talk with your child about what respect feels like to him or her. Help him or her understand that the way to treat others with respect and kindness is to do the things that he or she likes.

Set a good example for your child. Model respect when you interact with your child, other family members, and other people. Remember to treat others the way you want to be treated.

Sincerely,

Your Child's Teacher
