

Dear Families/Caregivers,

Contributing to one's social environment is an essential component of social awareness. To contribute, students must understand the benefits and strategies of social contribution. There are many ways students and their families can contribute to their communities.

In this lesson students learned that they can contribute to their school. Some ways that students can help their school include:

- Be a Good Student. Students should come to school ready to learn. Students should also know and follow the school and classroom rules.
- Look Around the School to Find Ways to Help. Students should be aware of their responsibility to make their school a better place.
- Step Up to Meet a Need. Students can pick up garbage, be kind to others, and find ways to improve the school.

Here are some ways you can help your child contribute to his or her school:

- Encourage your child to be a good student. Make sure his or her homework is completed, he or she gets a good night's sleep, and he or she is ready to go to school.
- Provide a model for your child by helping the school any way that you can such as volunteering time, donating items or money, or attending school events.

Together we can make our school a better place for our students to learn and contribute.

Sincerely,

Your Child's Teacher
