5:47	Council Initiative Activity alongside the STES' strategic goals for literacy and math : Principal Porter stated in addition to iReady being used to monitor academic progress, District's unit assessments, staff reflection and analysis and student data talks are used The council looked at Initiatives to focus on Principal Porter shares One Book One School may be implemented to enhance student literacy. Dr. Weldon asks about Creating a YouTube channel /videos so that parents may watch to see how a skill is taught to a student. Ms Rhodes includes family engagement nights for literacy and math also gives parents ideas of what can be done at school and at home although not recorded it happens once a month. Recording the Family nights will be looked into for the school has equipment and can look at recording in the future. Ms George adds that Write Night (family night) was recorded it may be possible to get a clip of it to share, Ms Rhodes agreed it's possible and clarified that Stonewall Tell does have a YouTube Channel. Ms Johnson Davis asks if peer to peer tutorials would be possible to tie in anti-bullying. Used as an incentive, students who've mastered concepts can earn the opportunity to record their videos which can be showcased on the you tube channel. Dr. Weldon states if One School One Book isn't cost feasible maybe looking at a book of the month, a social emotional bullying, some type of SEL book maybe each class will need a copy of the book. Assistant Principal Latimore shared he has a list of SEL /IB Learner Profile books that can be used. Dr. Love mentioned Drop Everything and Read (DEAR), which can be used for the One Book One School or any book the school prefers. Dr Weldon sums up the ideas, asks the council what 1 or 2 items to implement for the school year. Ms Rhodes suggest council should get the materials to support the literacy projects, books for the class to read, book of the month. Dr. Weldon states that time will be scheduled next meeting in an effort to focus on the initiative that the council decided.
