

FAFSA/GSFAPPS Retraction: FAFSA NOT Required for State Financial Aid Programs
(Including HOPE and Zell Miller Scholarships)

As a result of newly passed legislation (House Bill 324) during the 2013 Legislative Session, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) will NOT be required for those students planning to attend a college in Georgia who are seeking state financial aid. If a student and their family do not wish to complete a FAFSA, the GSFAPPS application can continue to be used to apply for financial aid programs administered by the State of Georgia.*

Earlier this year, it was announced that a FAFSA would be required for students seeking state financial assistance to attend a college in Georgia. In addition, the GSFAPPS process would no longer be available as a means to apply for state financial aid programs. These changes to the method by which students could apply for state aid were being implemented to comply with the requirements for verification of lawful presence in Georgia.

Legislators cited the potential for hardship and inconvenience for many families that would accompany the FAFSA requirement and the elimination of the GSFAPPS option as the reason for the passing of HB 324.

The FAFSA continues to be an essential part of applying for financial aid. Unlike GSFAPPS, the FAFSA considers federal and state financial aid opportunities for students whether they plan to attend an in-state or out-of-state school. We strongly encourage students and their families to complete a FAFSA to ensure they are receiving all financial aid available to them.
