WE LOVE OUR EARTH

NO MATTER THE LANGUAGE, THE SENTIMENT IS UNDERSTOOD

Walking down the 2nd floor of E Hall, my heart was touched by the beautiful, inspirational, and colorful artwork with messages created by Eules Junior High students in their World Language classes in honor of Earth Day.

Thank you to all of the World Language students and teachers for sharing such a powerful message with everyone at Eules Junior High. I love how everyone each did their part and then it all came together to create a larger impact visually. It really brings home the fact that it may not feel like a lot individually when we make small changes that we know are good for the environment, but when a lot of us do a little, it collectively makes a huge impact.

We work together and we are STALLION STRONG!

Learning English at home

Our family speaks Spanish at home. Because our daughter Francisca is learning English in school, she has taught us some vocabulary. Her teacher mentioned that teaching others is a great way for kids to practice a new language.

When we watch TV in English, and I don't understand something, Francisca tries to explain. We keep on the English subtitles so if she needs to look something up she can see the words.

She also downloads audiobooks in English for us to listen to in the car. Francisca enjoys finding books she's already read in Spanish that are available in English to listen to. And we sometimes play games like Hangman and Scrabble in English, or in both languages, and ask Francisca to define unfamiliar words.

We continue to speak mostly Spanish, but our daughter is proud of becoming bilingual and sharing what she learns with us. 👍
