FLU FACT

Q. When is the “official” influenza season?

A. Most influenza activity usually occurs from October to May in the United States even though influenza viruses have been detected year round.

A new influenza season begins the first week of October and goes through the third week in May. However, Texas conducts influenza surveillance year around.

Q. Do other respiratory viruses circulate during the flu season?

A. There can be other respiratory viruses that circulate during the flu season and can cause similar symptoms and illness as influenza. Some other respiratory viruses that may circulate during influenza season include:

- Rhinovirus,
- Respiratory Syncytial Virus (RSV),
- Adenovirus,
- Parainfluenza virus, and
- Coronavirus

Q. Why should people get vaccinated against the flu?

A. Influenza is a serious disease that can lead to hospitalization and sometimes death. Every flu season is different, and influenza infection can affect people differently. Even healthy people can get very sick from the flu and spread it to others. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), an estimated 23,607 (range 3,349-48,614) influenza-associated deaths and over 200,000 influenza-associated hospitalizations occur every year in the United States.

During “flu season”, flu viruses are circulating at higher levels in the U.S. population. An annual seasonal flu vaccine is the best way to reduce the chances that you will get seasonal flu and spread it to others. When more people get vaccinated against the flu, less flu can spread through that community.

HYDRATION

Please ensure student bring a water bottle to school that can be filled up throughout the day. Many
