1. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

a) Object and purpose

This Code of Ethics is an official document of LUDUM s.r.l. (hereinafter, "LUDUM" or the "Company" or the "Entity").

Its purpose is to identify the ethical principles and moral, behavioural and professional standards that help guide the Company's activities and that are relevant to the prevention of crimes under Legislative Decree No. 231/2001.

The purpose of this Code of Ethics is to moralise and apply principles of conduct in all relationships, both internal and external to LUDUM and the School Institute managed by it, with teachers, school operators, employees, Social Bodies, Institutions, collaborators, customers, suppliers, and any other interested parties.

The provisions of this Code constitute specifications of the general obligations of diligence, loyalty, honesty, transparency, fairness, and impartiality that qualify the exercise of functions of public necessity.

The Code of Ethics is also intended to formalise the commitment to behave in accordance with the principles of loyalty and fairness, to protect the legitimate interests of all parties related to the Company, to avoid any conduct that may facilitate the commission of any kind of illegal act, and to preserve a positive reputation and avoid even the appearance of impropriety.

b) Scope of application

The principles and values identified in this Code of Ethics must be constantly observed by LUDUM's internal and external employees and school collaborators in the performance of their work activities.

Each member of the Corporate Bodies, in awareness of his or her responsibilities, is also required to fully observe the principles and values contained in this Code, respecting people and rules and mutual cooperation.

The Code of Ethics has the value of a disciplinary code, ex art. 7 of the Workers' Statute, and therefore its violation constitutes by employees an offence punishable according to the rules of the sanction system provided by the entity.

Behaviours that violate the provisions set forth in the Code of Ethics are reported by teaching and non-teaching staff to the Executive Principal and/or the SB, who will promptly summon the person concerned and ascertain the facts in question.

c) Moral values

All educational and non-educational activities, operations, transactions, and, more generally, the conduct of personnel with regard to the activities carried out in the exercise of their duties and responsibilities must be inspired by the utmost transparency, fairness, diligence, equity, objectivity, loyalty, cooperation, honesty, moral integrity and professional rigor, and a sense of responsibility to the Company, in compliance with applicable laws, procedures and regulations, and in accordance with this Code of Ethics.

Specifically, it is to be understood as:

- transparency, the clarity, analyticity and completeness of information and activities carried out;
- fairness, compliance with generally accepted norms and principles of behaviour;
- diligence, prudent behaviour, adherence to statutes and internal orders;
- fairness, impartiality and neutrality of assessment.

The ethical and moral values previously identified must therefore constitute a constant and systematic duty of the operational conduct of each and every employee.

This commitment must also apply to external collaborators and anyone who has relations with the Company.
