This month's WELLNESS WOW

This summer I got to cross a bucket list item off... My family loves to visit National Parks. In August, we hiked The Narrows at Zion National Park.

It's a hike through the slot canyons of the Virgin River and took us approximately 4 hours to complete.

If you'd like to share Your Wellness WOW, we will highlight your WOW in an upcoming issue of The Buzz. If you would like to send a photo along, we will try to include that as well. Please e-mail your WOW to Marlo @ mbenning@fed.k12.mn.us.

“Why I Chose to Work in Education”

At the All-Staff Meeting, Special Education Director Jamie Wothe asked staff to share their reasons or “Why” for working in education. Below are some of the responses:

I hope to create positive experiences for everyone! Myself/Students/Co-workers

I enjoy spending time with young children and watching them grow and change.

The children....One of my boys (from group or testing) running down the hall and jumping into my arms....so excited to see me.

I love home visiting and working with parents. Sheri Johnson knew that and steered me to Freshwater. I have always felt teaching is a calling and God will put me where I’m needed most. Here I am.

Money.

To help students be successful (no matter where they were starting from) & be ready to adapt my expectations so they could all be successful - at least get started on the road to success.

It was an accident.

To make a positive difference in the lives of young people, no matter how big or how small.

I wanted to coach a state championship basketball team. (Didn’t happen.)
