DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Seeking acceptance. Defining home, Questioning the narratives we hear. What better themes to encapsulate the journey that is 8th grade?

The song, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," has become ubiquitous for longing. We long for a place where we can be ourselves. We long for a place to feel safe. We long for a place unburdened by the harsh realities of life. We all feel this at times, especially now. For some, like Dorothy, what she was searching for was there all along. However, like many adolescents, pushing at boundaries and making their own way, Dorothy cannot see the support of the community around her until she is away from it. That is what family, Zell, and the larger Jewish community will be for them when they need support. For others, like Elphaba (the Wicked Witch of the West), trying to make her voice heard over discrimination she faces, the search takes them out of the community they knew and leads them to seek support and acceptance in different spaces. As adolescents form their own opinions and their own identities, they may find that they need to look outside to find home. This is all an integral part of growing up and why I chose to complicate the traditional Wizard of Oz with elements from Wicked. No story is black and white. We do not all have the same ending, nor should we. What I hope is that these 8th graders continue their journey, find what they need to be their unique selves no matter where it is, and know that we will always be there to support them.

—Lisa Ehrlich-Menard

NOTES ON THE PRODUCTION

Words cannot describe how excited everyone is to perform The Wicked Wizard of Oz for our community. Each and every 8th grader has been putting in so much work to make sure this show is entertaining and fun for you to watch. We've had so much fun putting this show together and I would just like to share how much work everyone is doing.

The costume crew worked on figuring out how to express the characters' personalities on stage through makeup and clothing. They decided to go with traditional costumes. From repurposing clothes from past shows, to ordering, to making, all of our costumes took a lot to pull together. Ms. E literally gave blood with pin sticks. The publicity crew had to juggle multiple responsibilities such as making shirts, posters, displays and the program. Choreographers worked as a team to create dance moves that brought together parts of the show that are the most familiar from the movie. The set crew had the important job of making sure each set made sense with the scene. They worked to perfect everything you are seeing right now. Ms. Steele spent hours painting in 305. The prop crew makes it so everything you hear in the script comes alive and they worked hard to make everything as realistic as possible. Dramaturges created a trailer to ensure our community understands the show in a fun way while also making sure everyone knows the differences between our show and the original movie. This process was difficult, but we all got to come together and work as a group, creating new memories and friendships with our classmates.

—Jack Shapiro

Quotes about the process from our cast:

"The Wizard Of Oz has been a really exciting experience. One thing I have loved is being able to work with people from different crews. Savannah and I are the only two in the Dramaturg group, but it is really fun to also be able to collaborate and work with people from publicity, and I think it is really cool how we are able to all come together."

—Gabe Fisher

"It has been super fun doing the operetta, props are fun to paint and make. It's been great learning my lines and being in multiple different scenes. One of the best parts is that I am head of props, so I get to paint and draw making it a really fun process."

—Sam Solow

"So far what has been really fun about playing Niko is that he is a monkey. So first of all, it is easy to remember lines, and second, you can get really fun and creative while still being realistic to an extent."

—Omer Cohen

We hope you enjoy the show!

STORY BREAKDOWN

WICKED VS. WIZARD OF OZ – HOW IS OUR SHOW DIFFERENT?

The original Wizard of Oz musical featured only the story of Dorothy Gale from Kansas and her search for home. In the original, the Wicked Witch is an evil figure who terrorizes Oz and tries to kill Dorothy. The story appears to present life as black and white, showing only two sides: good and evil. Wicked, complicates the narrative of simple good and evil and explains the backstory of the Wicked Witch and some of the apparent characters in Wizard of Oz. It explains the depth of Elphaba (the Wicked Witch's real name) and how she became the character we see in the Wizard of Oz more misunderstood and discriminated against than evil. In both stories, Dorothy travels to see the Wizard, who insists that she kill the Wicked Witch. In the Wizard of Oz, Dorothy truly does kill the Witch. But in Wicked, it is revealed that Elphaba faked her death. In Wicked, it is also revealed that Elphaba and Glinda the Good Witch used to be friends. Our version is called The Wicked Wizard of Oz, a combination of both stories. Although there are many differences in the musicals, both stories portray women who are just trying to find their place in the world.

—Savannah Stern
