Real World Learning Begins at Piper's Early Childhood Center

Inspire, Ignite, Immerse is the motto we use to describe the journey of a Piper graduate. At the Pre-K and elementary level, Piper focuses on inspiring students with interactive career awareness activities and #FUTUREREADY projects.

This month, students in Ms. Martin's class, presented their architectural sketches for the new Piper Early Childhood Center playground to Superintendent Dr. Jessica Dain and Director of Facilities Mike Williams. Their drawings captured the elements they wanted included in the new playground, and they had an opportunity to stand up and present aloud.

"It was amazing to see the excitement on their faces when we unveiled the official rendering of the new playground," said Dr. Dain.

"This real world learning activity provided tangible, hands-on experience in careers involving architecture, engineering, construction and public speaking. It also gave our young students pride and ownership in a project that is truly made just for them."
