All South High School students have the opportunity to explore a wide variety of potential career paths at Career Day on Wednesday. Students in grades 9-12 will get an up-close and personal look at their choice of more than 60 careers and speak with representatives from 69 organizations.

Each student has signed up for three 25-minute sessions to learn more about a specific potential career. They were given the options to choose from a large list of careers including social media marketing, doctor, HVAC specialist, 911 dispatcher, lawyer, news reporter, coach, and many others.

Representatives from local, regional, and national companies have volunteered their time and expertise to visit with students. They will share information about their workplace, the intricacies of their job, and educational requirements and help lay out a path towards a successful career.
