FROM THE SAYVILLE SCHOOL DISTRICT

SAFER Than Sorry

The unfortunate events of recent history has made us wary.

As a nation, we may have lost our innocence in the face of such unthinkable tragedies at Sandy Hook Elementary school, the Boston Marathon, Columbine, and those on 9/11, but if innocence is replaced by foresight, awareness, prevention, and practice drills, perhaps its loss can avert the loss of innocent lives.

While Sayville Schools has long used standard safeguards to protect our students and staff from verbal and physical injury through the application of Project SAVE legislation (Safe Schools Against Violence in Education), antibullying programs, DASA (Dignity for All Students Act) mandates, and code-of-conduct policies, times have changed. Responding to the heightened concerns about student and staff safety, Sayville Administrators, Educators, Staff, and Board of Education members have been working on a cohesive solution. The result is a new safety plan that raises the level of security at all our school district facilities.

The Sayville BOE's decision and the community's approval to utilize $500,000 for a capital-improvements project has allowed the District to begin implementation of new technology that will ensure better security. Some of this technology includes external cameras, video-intercoms, alarms, and electronic visitor-management systems which would be in full operation during the school day. Parents may have already noticed not only the improved main entrances at the High School and Middle School which afford better views of approaching visitors, but also the new sign-in/out procedures and the ID-Visitor Pass requirements.

In addition, new security personnel, with professional law-enforcement backgrounds, are now present at the main entrances of each of our facilities. These individuals are trained for many different situations in crisis and emergency management. They know how to react, how to give directions while avoiding disaster, as well as evacuation procedures. Most importantly, they provide a safe and secure environment for our students, staff, and community.

A conducive environment for student learning is the ultimate goal of all these changes; and while we hope and pray never to test the system, it is better to be safe and secure, than sorry.

SETTING THE TAX RATE

A Tax-Rate Decrease of .24% Gives Needed Relief To Downtown Sayville Businesses

For another year, Sayville has been able to set the tax-rate increase LOWER than originally projected during the Budget Vote in May. Dropping from 2.75% to 2.63% translates—for the Homestead Properties before S.T.A.R. exemptions—into a $188 increase for the year or $15.66 more a month for homes assessed at 40K.

There is also some relief for Downtown Sayville. A shift from the NonHomestead Properties this year has resulted in a tax-rate DECREASE of .24% for our local businesses.

Fortunately, prudent oversight by the Sayville Board of Education and Sayville Administration, along with the District's long-term fiscal management and cooperating bargaining units, have yielded successful results in the Sayville School District. This year, the District did not have to cut our programs and educational opportunities for our students. Also, by projecting our tax-rate increase so accurately, especially with fluctuating State-Aid Revenues making the Budget season extra challenging for many school Districts, we were able to maintain the stability within our own district as well as our programs. We remain committed to providing both an excellent and affordable education that ensures our students are college/job-ready in the future.

Sayville School District thanks the community for your continued support and encourages residents to get involved and be informed by attending the Board of Education Meetings and other district functions. Please check the district online calendar for details, or contact Assistant Superintendent for Business John Belmonte at 244-6530 if you have budget questions.

This fall, the Sayville Players presented a play on play production: PLAY ON

Opening the 2013-2014 Season with Rick Abbot's PLAY ON, a gem of a comedy about the disastrous pitfalls of producing a play, the Sayville Players gave audiences a good laugh.

Within the story of the play, the cast of characters struggled with so many problems: line changes, stage malfunctions, and misplaced props. In contrast, the Sayville Players seemed at ease portraying the dreadful rehearsal with humor intact.

PLAY ON required a small company of actors to play the roles, but thanks to the hard work of both the cast and crew, each Sayville Player made sure no part was small!

Amazin' Dolly! THIS YEAR'S SWELL MUSICAL AT THE MIDDLE SCHOOL

Hello? Could anyone have thought otherwise?

Who couldn't love Hello, Dolly!, the life-reaffirming story of people from Yonkers finding love on a magical day in New York City? What's not to love about Hello, Dolly!, the musical, renowned for such memorable songs as It Takes a Woman, Ribbons Down My Back, Before the Parade Passes By, It Only Takes a Moment, and of course the theme song: Hello, Dolly!?

Yet, there were no guarantees that audiences would accept, much less love, a middle school production—how can students between the ages of 11 and 14 capture its joie de vivre?

However, Sayville Middle School has had an exceptional reputation for pulling it off, and again, this year's Middle School ensemble cast delivered an amazing production of Hello, Dolly!, earning standing ovations each night.

Serving as a spectacular backdrop were the intricately painted sets, the no-less dazzling costumes of the gorgeously attired ensemble cast, and the prancing dancers who as the waiters in the posh Harmonia Gardens, punctuated the comic interplay between lead performers with breathtaking acrobatics.

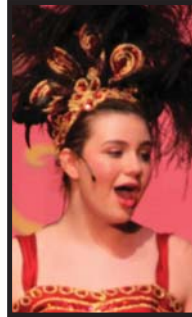

Congratulations to Director Jeff Hoffman, Musical Director Fred Diekmann and Orchestra, Musical Director/Producer Kristi Woerner, Sound: Andrew Giammalvo, Lighting: Steve Hailey, Construction: Ken VanEssendelft, Artwork: Cora Sparwasser, Choreographers: Jillian Brudi & Jillian Dymek, Costumes: rented from Rebecca Wallis, as well as all the unsung production assistants, High School and parent volunteers, set designers, and crew.

Thanks to their hard work and creative energy, the 2013 Middle School production of Hello, Dolly!, which obviously took "MORE than a moment" to prepare, will surely be remembered and "loved a whole life long."

Ancillary characters who filled out the cast included: Mrs. Rose (Amanda Wessels), Stanley (Alex Pittari), Policeman (Dan Cliff), 1st Cook (Zoe Rivera), 2nd Cook (Abigail Newman), Court Clerk (Adele Micelli), Judge (Moira Mahoney), Coachman (Reggie Elton), and especially the High School musicians who marched in the parade!

During the "Most Wonderful Time of the Year," Sayville students, School District personnel, faculty, staff, and parents, showed remarkable generosity through a variety of districtwide drives that help those less fortunate. Here are just a few...

Cherry Avenue

Students and staff at Cherry Avenue have once again outdone themselves with their generosity and support for those who are struggling financially to make this holiday season a special one for their families. The Giving Tree at Cherry was full of wishes that brightened up the holiday season of local families. Within a matter of days the ornaments, close to 200, that held the wishes were all claimed. "We are very grateful for the tremendous support we receive from the community and staff of Cherry Avenue Elementary school and would like to send a big thank you. Happy Holidays!" said Social Worker Noemi Barczak.

Lincoln Avenue

Remembering those most in need during the holiday season, Lincoln

Avenue students, staff and families united in a variety of drives to help. In the Lights of Love program, Lincoln families selected gifts from a wish list for other Lincoln families.

"In addition to Lights of Love," Principal Dr. Michele LeBlanc offered, "we also run the Giving Tree: students donate children's books to the Sayville Food Pantry, which the Pantry issues to children on their birthdays. When a child makes a donation, they decorate a paper ornament to place on "The Giving Tree."

The Student Government also supported Toys for Tots and collected boxes of toys for children in need. Thanks to the generosity of the Lincoln Avenue community, the boxes are overflowing with toys!

Sunrise Drive

"Giving is Worth

More Than the Gift" the bulletin board reads in Sunrise Drive, and obviously many Sunrise Drive families took this to heart when they plucked ornaments from the Annual Giving Tree. Each ornament contained a gift idea for those in need within the Sunrise Drive Community.

"In addition this year," Sunrise Drive Social Worker Toni Fabian explained, "we are collecting toys for the Family Service League: PROJECT TOY AND REES-SPECHT LIFE, cultivating kindness one 'piece' at a time. (This memorial toy drive was created by the parents of Edwin-Ehmer Specht [Rees], a little boy who died tragically last year at 22 months.)

Since school began, the message of giving has been an ongoing focus of the Sunrise Drive Student Council, comprised of eighty Fourth and Fifth graders. Among the community-service activities accomplished so far, a building-wide food drive for Thanksgiving baskets included raising money for food cards. These were donated both to Sunrise Drive families as well as to the Sayville Food Pantry. During Halloween, Sunrise Drive collected candy and supplies that filled twenty boxes, which were shipped to troops in Afghanistan and Korea.

High School

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL EVERY CHILD'S

DREAM dinner, organized by Charlie Russo and Ken Mangan, was hosted for a third time at Sayville High School with the assistance of 250 volunteer elves (students and staff), who along with Santa, distributed coats and gifts to approximately 700 people in need.

A frigid October Saturday was no deterrent for the 255 children (out of 262 who signed up) for Sayville's first Annual Elementary School Duathlon.

Rain-or-shine, at 7 a.m. they came with bikes of all shapes and sizes, but all came enthused and ready to run-bike-run—with two simple goals—to finish their first-ever Duathlon and to have fun doing it!

As the name implied, the Duathlon involved two activities: running and biking. Although these are often timed events, the Sayville Elementary School Duathlon organizers emphasized that: "This event is not a race, and all students should be proud for their participation, no matter how long it takes to complete the course. We hope you can join the fun this Saturday!"

That day the sun helped warm up the morning. Flushed with exertion, these young athletes were greeted with hollers, cheers, and hugs as each accomplished what they had originally intended—to finish the first-ever Sayville Duathlon.

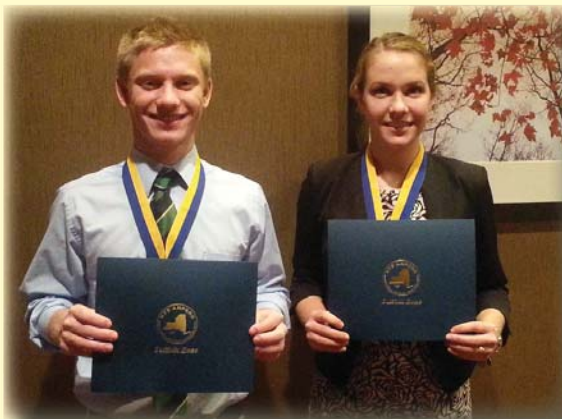

With bananas and bagels, (generously donated by Stop and Shop) available afterwards, the participants were proud of their accomplishments. So were the Duathlon organizers: Gary Jensen, Lincoln Avenue Principal Dr. Michele LeBlanc, and Coach Bolger, as well as all 75 volunteers consisting of parents, faculty, and members of Athletes Helping Others. Special mention goes to Nikita Dorcinvil who owns the timing company "Just Finish, Inc.," for donating his time and services and taking finisher pictures that could be found on his website, www.justfinish.net

Congratulations to SPENCER ANDREWS & JORDAN KOBEL Sayville's 2013 Suffolk Zone Award Recipients

Spencer Andrews has excelled in the classroom and on the athletic field. This young man's compassion, enthusiasm, and commitment have led to his academic and athletic success.

Physical education has taught him how to be a leader on and off the field of competition. Spencer has verbally committed to the University of Hartford, where he intends to play lacrosse and pursue a major in political science.

Jordan Kobel is a hardworking and dedicated student who has distinguished herself in the classroom as well as on the athletic field. Physical Education has taught her to appreciate physical activities that promote good health, sportsmanship and team play while also collaboratively working with her peers. Next fall, Jordan plans to attend either Seton Hall or James Madison University, where she will study to be a physician's assistant.

The award is given annually by the New York State Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance to one male and one female student athlete from each school district in Suffolk County. The students were selected for this award based on the following areas of exceptional achievement: physical performance, scholastic ability, and leadership, as well as community service.
