V. Presentation: Primary Facilities Survey Results – Fallon Research & Communications, Inc.

Paul Fallon shared results from a community survey conducted in early March. He first explained the timeline, process, methods, and estimated margin of sampling error (6.81%). Moving to the survey data, he shared results related to satisfaction of the quality of life in Wyoming (89% satisfied), the biggest reason you moved to or have stayed in the areas (49% quality of schools), general satisfaction with the school district serving the community (74% satisfied), quality of education being provided by the school district (86% excellent/good), how the district manages budget and finances (62% excellent/good), and additional data related to how information is received, use of social media and awareness of district information. With regard to facilities, Mr. Fallon shared that 49% of respondents rated the overall conditions of all Wyoming school buildings as excellent or good, but only 29% rated the conditions of the primary school buildings as excellent or good. Results for questions on preference of the two options for primary facilities pointed towards three new K-4 buildings on the current sites, with 60% of respondents stating that this was a good idea. 35% of respondents believed that two new K-2 schools and one 3-4 school was a good idea. Given this clear direction to move forward with three new K-4 schools, Mrs. Zoller stated that the Primary Facilities Steering Committee would be meeting next week to review the data and determine next steps for the next community forum.
