Distorted Self-Portraits

Look at yourself in the mirror. What do you see? Now put on your "distortion glasses". Whoa... is that a THIRD eye? Wait a minute, do you have a mouth on your forehead and one ear is on upside-down?!! Create a portrait loosely based on the real you in the mirror but all mixed up!

The Daydream Selfie

Do you ever daydream? What do you think about? Cut out a black and white picture of yourself and glue it to the bottom of a larger piece of paper. Using art materials of your choice, draw a large bubble above your head and fill it with pictures of things you find yourself thinking about a lot.
Need a challenge?
Fill the space with words too!

Silhouette Self-Portrait

Have a family member outline your silhouette. Tape a piece of paper to the wall behind you, stand sideways in front of your paper, and shine a light on you casting a shadow on the paper. Fill in the positive space inside of the silhouette outline with drawings or collages of the people, places, and things that represent you.

Personal Collage

Find items that are meaningful to you that you've held on to throughout the years. Consider flat objects such as old drawings, cut out letters, photos and magazine pictures, text from a favorite book, candy wrappers, awards (you may want to use copies of those), cartoons, ticket stubs, and stickers. Arrange the items and glue them onto a piece of paper or cardboard making a balanced composition.

Name in Nature: Photography Scavenger Hunt

On a sunny day, search for the letters of your name in objects from nature. Maybe a stick looks like the letter "Y", a rock looks like the letter "O", a worm looks like the letter "S", etc. Photograph each nature object separately and flip through your camera to see your name spelled out. If you can, print each letter and collage them onto a new piece of paper to spell your entire name.

If I were a...

Make a picture of yourself in a costume that represents you. Are you a mermaid like Julián is? Are you a princess? Are you a super hero? Are you a robot? Are you a....?
Create a drawing, painting, collage or mixed media of artwork yourself transformed.
