

A multiplicative pattern is a pattern that occurs when a constant non-zero value is multiplied by an input value to determine the output value ($y = ax$). A multiplicative pattern exists in a graph when the points lie in a straight line that passes through the origin $(0, 0)$.