

The CASEL Wheel

The new version of the “CASEL Wheel” includes the same five core competencies (Self-Awareness, Self-Management, Social Awareness, Relationship Skills, and Responsible Decision-Making).

Now, four “key settings” wrap around the competencies: Communities, Families and Caregivers, Schools, and Classrooms.

In doing so, CASEL advocates for a systemic approach to SEL—practices, programs, and policies across classrooms, schools, families, and communities all influence students' learning and development. If supports are coordinated and working in harmony, this can promote student voice and agency, create supportive school climates, foster family engagement, and build student and adult social-emotional learning.
