

THE WILDCAT WEEKLY

A Note from Dr. G

Volume 3 Issue 33

Superintendent's Corner

May is a busy and exciting time across the district. State tests and APs kept students busy at CES, WMS and WHS, but 8th graders still managed to escape to Club Getaway for a memorable trip with picture perfect weather. In spite of not having any testing, our littlest Wildcats, at Hawthorne, kept very busy this week too! First grade families visited classrooms for a celebration of learning that showcased literacy, math, science, and art accomplishments. The One Book One School project culminated with a virtual author visit from Grace Lim who read to students, taught them to draw, and then answered questions. Thank you librarian Carolyn MacCullough! Today was just jam packed with activity. April showers brought May flowers and an incredible Kindergarten concert. Congratulations to all the Kindergarten families and to music teacher ConnieMarie Rao and art teacher Melissa Mancini for making it all possible. The duck eggs that have been incubating in Christin Aboulenein's STEM class are just about ready to hatch, so students from Gina Carmody's class at CES visited to prepare their younger counterparts for what to expect next! Dr. Mary Schnoner's students hosted a grandparents tea and in between raindrops, Lisa Gray's class released their pet lady bugs! Happy Mothers' Day Wildcat Moms!

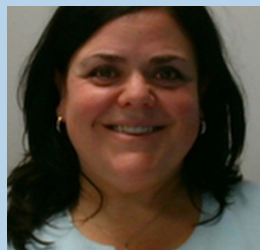

Noticing the Good

May is a time for celebrating all the people in our schools. This week was teacher appreciation week. Our PTAs found creative ways to say thank you all week long to the outstanding educators that make Mount Pleasant schools incredible places to learn! This week we also celebrated our school nurses. Quality education is dependent on the health and wellness of our students and staff. Our nurses make sure everyone's health needs are taken care of every day. Thank you again teachers and nurses!

The season is winding down, and across the board our teams are having great success. This week was filled with highlights. Zana and Sofia both broke the school record in Pentathlon. THREE Wildcats reached the 100 goal milestone in lacrosse - congratulations Maeve, Shaina, and Isiah, and we held a DI signing ceremony for two athletes that will continue to make us Wildcat Proud at the next level - James playing football at Wagner and Eliana cheering at UMass.
