Worldteachers Recruitment Limited

www.worldteachers.net | rodny@worldteachers.net

Worldteachers Recruitment was established in 2009 by Roddy Hammond who worked in the recruitment industry for 20 years, 12 of which were running a Glasgow based agency Hammond Resources, specialising in accountancy, legal and HR appointments.

Roddy made his first trip to the Middle East in 2008 and recognised there was a growing demand for UK qualified school teachers. His parents were teachers and in 2009, when there was a temporary over supply of newly qualified teachers, Roddy established Worldteachers to supply the British Schools in the Middle East. The company is well established and very well known - a trusted supplier to schools in BSME, and many other schools around the world.

In February 2020, we registered the details of candidate number 100,000 - these are teachers looking to relocate to a different country or city in the world.

So how are Worldteachers different to the rest of the agencies?

- We utilise a varied combination of marketing channels which gives a unique shortlist of candidates of high quality.
- We are at the leading edge of technology to ensure our processes are highly efficient, saving schools time and money.
- We run premium teacher recruitment fairs working with selected schools to maximise their chances of recruiting the best teachers.
- We have a collaborative approach, working with other partners, including professional bodies, business networks and Universities, giving us an extensive reach throughout the teaching profession.
- We work with government and private schools, giving teachers greater options and schools an introduction to a broader spectrum of candidates.
- We deal with high volume campaigns, new school openings and expansion, and one-off hard to fill assignments - temporary, fixed term and permanent.
- We have bespoke terms that reflect a long term approach to relationships with schools.
