Daniel Jenkins Academy is the proud recipient of generous donations

North Charleston, SC – Daniel Jenkins Academy (DJA) is the proud recipient of a mural recently painted by a generous anonymous donor. The mural is located in the school's cafeteria and the focal point is “changing or shifting one's energy.”

The colors are vibrant and welcoming and inspire students and staff to ponder what motivates them. Sai-Waun Randolph, a former DJA student, inspired the idea for the mural based on a drawing he completed, which was then used by artist Allison Dunavant to construct the mural as it appears today.

“The school community is excited and honored to be adopted by this anonymous donor,” explained Principal Quintella Middleton. “In addition, at the start of last school year, all faculty and staff members were gifted care boxes that were a delight and comfort to us all.”

For more information, contact DJA's publicity representative, Tarikia White, at (843) 747-6609.

About the Charleston County School District

Charleston County School District (CCSD) is a nationally accredited school district committed to providing equitable and quality educational opportunities for all its students. CCSD is the second-largest school system in South Carolina and represents a unique blend of urban, suburban, and rural schools spanning 1,300 square miles along the coast. CCSD serves approximately 50,000 students in 88 schools and specialized programs.

CCSD offers a diverse portfolio of educational options and specialized programs delivered to the students of CCSD through neighborhood, magnet, IB (international baccalaureate), Montessori, and charter schools and programs. Rich educational opportunities for students include programs in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); music and other creative and performing arts; career and technical preparation programs; military; dual credit; and many more.
