Celebrating 20 years of excellence

Westerville Central High School Warhawk Culture Blueprint

What We Believe	How We Behave	Outcomes We Achieve
Relentless Pursuit of Growth (Pursue Excellence)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do the Work - Be Gritty & Embrace Challenges Be Reflective, Adapt and Grow View Mistakes as Feedback & Try Again 	Best Version of US!
Better Together (Think We, Not Me)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Be Coachable Believe in Each Other, Listen to Understand We > Me 	Everyone is Welcome, Included and Valued.
Own It (Make a Difference; Act with Purpose)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Own Your Actions, Attitudes & Words Act with Integrity Do the Right Thing, at All Times 	Prepared for Success

In order to build and sustain a strong culture, people need to know what is expected of them in their 20 Square Feet. The Warhawk Culture Blueprint is designed to help us communicate our culture with exceptional clarity. It makes clear what culture is, why it's important, and the role that everyone plays in building and sustaining the culture.

The Warhawk Blueprint does something else that is critically important: It links our culture to our strategy. If we ask for behavior in our strategy that is not supported by our culture, we will struggle to execute.

Abridged History of the Westerville City School District

The Westerville School District was officially established in 1855. In 1866, the district built a building known as the Union School on Vine Street which had one room and served all grades; two more rooms were added in 1879. Until 1882, high school course study took two years to complete. In 1889, high school classes required three years of study, and by 1900, four years of study were required for graduation. In 1896, the Vine Street School (now Emerson Elementary School) was built. The new building had six rooms, seven teachers, and just under 300 students. In 1908, four more classrooms, a drinking fountain, and indoor restrooms were added to the rear of the building.

In 1921, high school science course laboratories needed to be updated. Driven by the school system's removal from the North Central Accreditation, the push for a new high school began. In 1923, Westerville High School (now Hanby Elementary) opened with state-of-the-art facilities.

With growing attendance, a new elementary School needed to be built. In 1930, it was decided that all new school buildings should be named after poets and authors; not all district buildings, however, held to this standard. In 1931, Longfellow Elementary opened and in 1955, Central College became part of the Westerville School District. In 1958-1959, Whittier and Hawthorne were built (respectively).

By 1959, the need for a larger high school was evident and in 1960, the new Westerville High School (now Westerville South High School) opened to students in the district. The new name for the school was to be "James Russell Lowell High School" after the famed American Poet, but was quickly disputed by many and the school returned to its former name.

Huber Ridge (1964) was the first school to be named after a subdivision; Annehurst (1970) followed and was named accordingly. Walnut Springs (1965), Blendon (1969), Heritage (1989), Genoa (1998), and Minerva Park (2023) Middle Schools were all named after their locations.

The remaining Elementary schools are as follows: Alcott (2002), Cherrington (1968), Fouse (2002), Mark Twain (1974), McVay (1989), Pointview (1973), Robert Frost (1974), Wilder (1989), and Minerva France (2022).

By the early 1970s, Westerville High School had become too small to accommodate all the students in the district, thus Westerville North opened in 1975. Several additions were constructed to both Westerville South and Westerville North until the need for a new high school was again evident. Westerville Central opened in 2003 marking a major milestone in the community. When Central opened, there were approximately 800 Freshman and Sophomores; Hanby Elementary School students shared the space as the aging Hanby building underwent renovations. Today, the Westerville City School District educates approximately 15,700 students and is the 12th largest district in Ohio.
