COURSE DESCRIPTION: History of American Popular Music

This course is offered to all interested students, grades 9-12.

This course is designed for students who seek the opportunity to extend their musical understanding, heighten their music listening skills, and increase their ability to respond more fully to music by tracing the development of American Music to the present. Experiences will include opportunities to analyze famous compositions representative of many styles, and inquire into musical connections to contemporary life, history, and culture.

Music of significant historical time periods will be explored (from early twentieth century until current).

Rock and Roll: An American Story is rooted in a teaching philosophy that believes students learn best when they truly connect with the material to which they're introduced. Obviously, popular music is one such point of connection. This course is devoted to bringing music into the classroom as a gateway to the substantive and meaningful exploration of a wide range of topics in Social Studies, English Language Arts, Humanities, Music and other subject areas.

This curriculum is not simply about allowing students to listen to and enjoy music in school, but about empowering them to become more critical listeners and thinkers. One of the most effective ways to do this is by regularly using the material in the classroom for which students have a natural and deep affection, by making the classroom a place students look forward to entering, and by teaching in a way that makes the classroom an engaging, enjoyable and exciting place for students to be.

In today's global economy, students need to be lifelong learners who have the knowledge and skills to adapt to an evolving workplace and world. To address these demands, Standard 9, Career Readiness, Life Literacies and Key Skills, which includes the 12 Career Ready Practices, establishes clear guidelines for what students need to know and be able to do in order to be successful in their future careers and to achieve financial independence. Career readiness, life literacies and key skills education provides students with the necessary skills to make informed career and financial decisions, engage as responsible community members in a digital society, and to successfully meet the challenges and opportunities in an interconnected global economy.

The Arts as Creative Personal Realization

Philosophical Foundation	Lifelong Goals
Participation in the arts as creators, performers/presenters/producers and audience members enables individuals to discover and develop their own creative capacity, thereby providing a source of lifelong satisfaction.	Artistically literate citizens find at least one art discipline in which they develop sufficient competence to continue active involvement in creating, performing/presenting/producing, responding and connecting to as an adult.

The Arts as Culture, History, and Connectors

Philosophical Foundation	Lifelong Goals
Throughout history, the arts have provided essential means for individuals and communities to express their ideas, experiences, feelings, and deepest beliefs. Each discipline shares common goals but approaches them through distinct approaches and techniques. Understanding works of art provides insights into an individual's own culture and society, as well as those of others, while also providing opportunities to access, express and integrate meaning across a variety of content areas.	Artistically literate citizens know and understand works of art from varied historical periods and cultures, and actively seek and appreciate diverse forms and genres. They also seek to understand relationships among the arts and cultivate habits of searching for and identifying patterns and relationships between the arts and other content.

At the high school level (grades 9–12), all students are required to complete five credits in Visual and Performing Arts as part of the course requirements to receive a high school diploma (N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1). Because students’ experiences and course offerings at the middle and high school levels may vary, the new grade 9–12 standards are described in three levels of proficiency. The three levels—proficient, accomplished, and advanced—are flexible enough to accommodate varying degrees of achievement by students during high school, including those who build on their K–8 foundation by pursuing more profound engagement in one art discipline, as well as those who explore a wide range of artistic pursuits and experiences at the high school level.

Proficient	Accomplished	Advanced
Students at the proficient level have developed the foundational technical and expressive skills and understandings in an art form necessary to solve assigned problems or prepare an assigned repertoire for presentation; make appropriate choices with some support; and may be prepared for active engagement in their community. They understand the art form to be an important form of personal realization and well-being, and make connections between the art form, history, culture and other learning.	Students at the accomplished level are, with minimal assistance, able to identify or solve arts problems based on their interests or for a particular purpose; conduct research to inform artistic decisions; and create and refine arts performances, products, or presentations that demonstrate technical proficiency and personal communication and expression. They use the art form for personal realization and well-being, and have the necessary skills for and interest in participation in arts activity beyond the school environment.	Students at the advanced level independently identify challenging arts problems based on their interests or for specific purposes, and bring creativity and insight to finding artistic solutions. They are facile in using at least one art form as an effective avenue for personal communication, demonstrating a higher level of technical and expressive proficiency characteristic of honors or college level work. As arts learners, they exploit their personal strengths and apply strategies to overcome personal challenges. They are capable of taking a leadership role in arts activity within and beyond the school environment.
A level of achievement attainable by most students who complete a high school level course in the arts (or equivalent) beyond the foundation of quality K–8 instruction.	A level of achievement attainable by most students who complete a rigorous sequence of high-school level courses (or equivalent) beyond the proficient level.	A level and scope of achievement that significantly exceeds the accomplished level. Achievement at this level is indisputably rigorous and substantially expands students’ knowledge, skills, and understandings beyond the expectations articulated for accomplished achievement.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Music encompasses a broad multidisciplinary field within its own academic area, including the teaching of creative process, history of the arts and culture, performing and aesthetic responses & critique methodologies. The NJSLs are designed to integrate four core music standards related to creative process, history of the arts and culture, performing and aesthetic responses & critique methodologies. These interdisciplinary connections, as a result, are present within the current standards. Interdisciplinary connections in this document expand outside the distinct field of music into science, social studies, mathematics, and technology; and literacy/language arts.

- Math: Using songs and poems in instruction to determine patterns and rhythm.
- ELA: Listening to regular beats, alliteration, rhymes and repeated lines to determine the meaning in a story, poem or song.
- Social Studies: Identify common, recognizable musical forms and characteristics related to specific cultural traditions. Identify compositional techniques used in different styles and genres of music vary according to prescribed sets of rules. Identify stylistic considerations that vary across genres, cultures, and historical eras.
- Technology: Comparing the same work in different media. Compare and contrast the text to an audio, video, or multimedia version while analyzing each medium's portrayal of the subject.
- Science: Deepen student understanding of the scientific method and the elements of music. Students will develop a basic understanding of core concepts related to musical terms based in science: pitch, tempo timbre, interval, chord, harmony, melody, and rhythm. Students will conduct scientific experiments to explore and understand the properties of sound.

Assessments

Music assessments, like other content area assessments should be a natural and ongoing part of the teaching and learning process. The more authentic the assessment process is, the better the chance that students will see the interdisciplinary connections between music and other areas of study, as well as the role of music in their lives as citizens.

1. What factors should be considered in planning for assessment?
 - Content mastery (which standards are being assessed)
 - Analysis of content
 - Skills development
 - Connections between and among essential learnings
 - Connections between the past, present, and the future
 - Interdisciplinary connections
 - Diversity in student learning styles and needs
 - Opportunities for democratic participation

2. How are goals of instruction and assessment related?
 - Are the goals for learning actually being assessed?
 - To what degree are we asking students to extend learning?
 - Can students transfer their learning to a new situation?
 - Does the assessment reflect what is valued instructionally?
 - Does the assessment benefit the learner by informing teaching practices?
 - Does the assessment allow for a variety of learners to demonstrate their understanding?

3. What should you consider as you develop criteria for scoring?
 - How many ways can students demonstrate they have learned the material?
 - How will students be scored?
 - How will the needs of a variety of learners be addressed with this assessment?
 - Does the scoring tool reflect the learning goals?

4. What are the most constructive assessment designs and methods for music educators?
 - Performance assessment
 - Authentic assessment
 - Authentic instruction
 - Portfolio assessment

Music and Technology K-12 Indicators

As teaching, learning and curriculum across New Jersey evolves to better meet student needs, teachers when addressing standards in music are expected to integrate the adopted 8.1 Educational Technology, 8.2 Technology Education, Engineering, Design, and Computational Thinking - Programming, and 21st Century Skills into their classroom practice. To that end, teachers will be expected to apply the following anchor standards into their classroom practice.

The following content statements can be integrated into any of the adopted Music strands (methodologies).

8.1 Educational Technology

- Understand and use technology systems.
- Select and use applications effectively and productively.
- Apply existing knowledge to generate new ideas, products, or processes
- Create original works as a means of personal or group expression.

8.2 Technology Education, Engineering, Design, and Computational Thinking - Programming

The following content statements can be integrated into any of the adopted Music strands (creative process, history of the arts and culture, performing and aesthetic responses & critique methodologies).

- The characteristics and scope of technology.
- The core concepts of technology.
- The relationships among technologies and the connections between technology and other fields of study.
- The cultural, social, economic and political effects of technology.
- The effects of technology on the environment

Digital Resources/Technology

Differentiation/Modifications

Curriculum Differentiation is a process teachers use to increase achievement by improving the match between the learner's unique characteristics: prior knowledge, cognitive level, learning style, motivation, strength or interest and various curriculum components: Nature of the objective, teaching activities, learning activities, resources and products. This broad notion applies to learners from a diverse range of abilities, including: Gifted and Talented, Multilingual Learners, Students with Disabilities, and Students at Risk of School Failure. Music is a field of education that provides educators with a wealth of opportunities for differentiation, but also real challenges of meeting the needs of diverse learners. This addendum reveals pathways for music differentiation specific to four distinct student populations.

Teachers can differentiate

- Content: What we teach and how we give students access to the information and ideas that matter
- Process: How students come to understand and “own” the knowledge, understanding, and skills essential to a topic
- Product: How a student demonstrates what he or she has come to know, understand and be able to do as a result of a segment of study

According to students'

- Readiness-The current knowledge, understanding, and skill level a student has related to a particular sequence of learning
- Interest- What a student enjoys learning about, thinking about, and doing
- Learning Style-A student's preferred mode of learning. It is influenced by learning style, intelligence preference, gender and culture

Acceleration can occur in any subject area. Middle school students should be able to take high school courses; high school students take college courses with appropriate credit accrued. Some provision must be made for continued acceleration or high-level enrichment. Unless the student has a pre-identified problem, social or emotional development should not inhibit acceleration. Acceleration can be achieved through the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● flexible pacing ● content acceleration ● early entrance to school ● multi-age classes ● compacting 	possible, the students’ ability to understand is increased. Two factors will influence the student’s ability: (1) the level of familiarity the student has with the content; and (2) the degree to which the content is given meaning through visuals such as pictures, charts, and diagrams. Nonlinguistic cues enable the student to comprehend the material and the teacher’s messages. The aim is to lower the language barrier by making the classroom communication simple, clear, and meaningful to the student. Students may sound “fluent” in a social setting, but have difficulty with “academic” language. Grouping: involves placing students of like ability together in homogeneous arrangements, such as special classes or clustering in the same classroom. Grouping allows for more appropriate, rapid, and advanced instruction and challenges students without isolating them.

Flexible grouping is a range of grouping students together for delivering instruction. This can be as a whole class, a small group, or with a partner. Flexible grouping creates temporary groups that can last an hour, a week, or even a month.

Different Types of Grouping:

- Self-contained class
- Pullout program
- Cluster grouping in the regular classroom
- Honors and enriched classes
- Seminars
- Resource centers

- Giving Directions-Stated clearly and distinctly and delivered in both written and oral forms to ensure that LEP students understand the task. In addition, students should be provided with/or have access to directional words such as circle, write, draw, cut, underline, etc.

Prepare Instruction

- Eliminate peripheral information.
- Translate abstract to concrete.
- Build background information with brainstorming, semantic webbing, and maps/graphics, photos, illustrations, and videos.
- Use KWL Charts
- Slowly expand the amount of material being learned.
- Maintain consistent classroom procedures/routines for prediction and comfort level.
- Share routine expectations.

- Use questioning techniques to elicit prior knowledge Prompts
- Mnemonics
- Repeat and clarify directions
- Segment techniques and task analysis

Application

- Dramatization
- Props/manipulatives to relate to experience
- Simulations
- Games/puzzles to generalize information

Instructional Monitoring:

Frequent monitoring of the performance and progress of students with disabilities is essential to ensure that students are, in fact, understanding and benefiting from learning activities. Monitoring provides teachers with a means of obtaining information about students and their ability to participate effectively in activities. Monitoring also provides a means for teachers to determine when and how to adjust instruction and provides supports to promote student development. Equally important is student self-monitoring,

Equally important is student self-monitoring, self-evaluation, and self-management to promote student self-reflection and self-direction regarding task demands, goal attainment, and performance accuracy.

Student Motivation:

Expanding student motivation to learn content in music can occur through: activity choice, appeal to diverse learning styles, choice to work with others or alone, hands-on activities, and multimodal activities.
