About the cover:

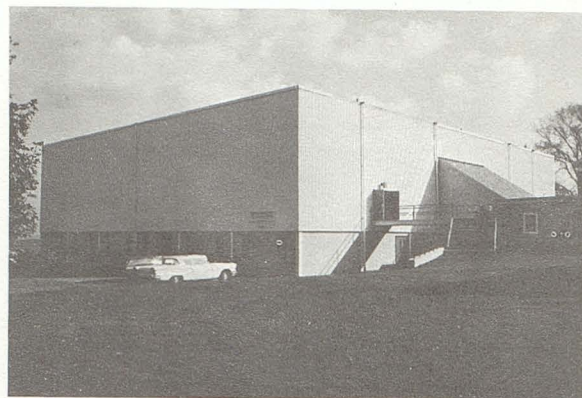

"Graduation Day" — A photograph attempting to capture some of the feeling of a graduate. The mixed emotions of climaxing and ending the four years of hard work and fun is symbolized by the diploma and the excitement of Graduation Day is represented by the silhouette of the graduate. The picture was made by combining a high contrast negative of the graduate silhouette with a reverse image negative of a diploma.

FIELD HOUSE

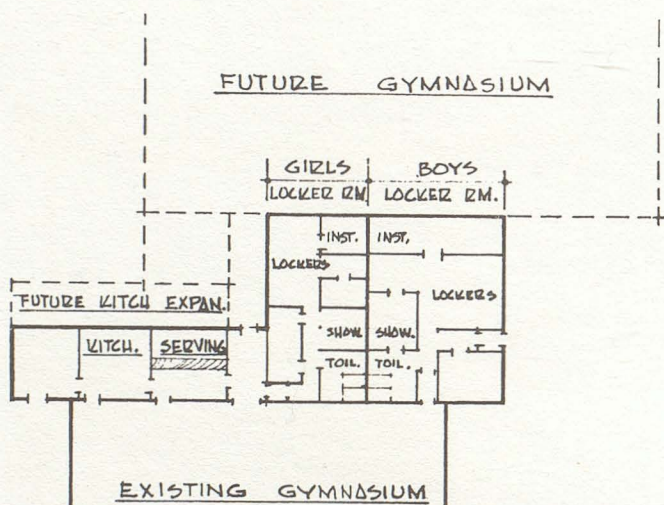

Back in September of 1956 the Academy Alumni Association decided to promote a fund-raising campaign for the purpose of extending the gymnasium facilities at the Academy. Many of you will recognize the ink blotter below which was distributed to advertise this campaign.

However, because of a pressing need for the Academy to extend the available classroom facilities, this campaign was abandoned after a short time and efforts began in the direction of constructing what we now recognize as the Bowen building.

A building committee was appointed by the Trustees in 1961. Little did that committee realize it at the time, but many of them continued to serve on the building committee through both projects of the Bowen building and the present new field house structure. In 1962 the building committee, still pursuing the idea of expanded gymnasium facilities, had engaged the services of architects and were displaying plans of both conventional gymnasiums and field house-like-gymnasium structures. On January 12, 1963, completed plans were displayed of a proposed $219,000 conventional gymnasium. With the development of problems of financing in 1964 the Trustees engaged the services of Mr. William McClennan, professional fund raiser, to raise $300,000. Believe it or not, at that time many people expected that such a figure realized would take care of most of the Academy's future building needs, including classrooms, library expansion and gymnasium.

The dotted lines represent part of a long range plan. The present proposal calls for enlarging the present area on the boys side and remodeling what is now the girls side.

In 1965 the original 1961 building committee recommended that a classroom facility be constructed, and to make a very long, long story short, it was built — the Bowen building was completed during the winter of 1965.

In 1966 a field house building committee was established, made up largely of the members of the original 1961 building committee. In 1968 the Trustees appropriated money to engage the services of an architect to draw up the plans for the proposed field house. It was November 23, 1969, when construction began on the site of our newest structure. Mr. David Presbrey of the architectural firm, The Providence Partnership, had put our ideas and dreams onto paper in the form of construction plans; and Joseph Kovarovich, General Contractor of West Ashford, Connecticut, built our building, giving us a proposed date of completion for November 1, 1971. The total cost of construction is $660,000, a low unit cost of $16.50 per square foot for such a building including classrooms. The ground-floor level of the field house consists of spacious locker and shower rooms, storage facilities, lavatories, conference rooms, the student store, and classrooms for home economics, health education and physical fitness, data processing, business English, typing, stenography, office, office machines and accounting classes. Upstairs, we'll be able to seat approximately one thousand spectators, with room to expand later. This main field house area will be used for activities such as physical education classes, basketball, track, tennis, badminton, volleyball, baseball, dances, banquets, large meetings and exhibitions.

Many people contributed most generously in various ways in order to bring this long sought wish into reality for the benefit of our Academy student body. Our thanks go out to all, and especially to the president of the Trustees, Mr. William Johnson, and past presidents Mr. William Bentley, Mr. Einar Hansen and Mr. Vernon Wetherell, building committee chairman Mr. Lawrence Grennan and his committee members: Mr. Todd Stevenson, Mr. Kenneth Sherman, Mr. Arthur Croteau, Mrs. Elizabeth Child, Mr. Stephen Lincoln, Mr. Arthur Weimann and alternates Mrs. Mary Todd and Dr. Roger Parks.

Special recognition should also be given to two men in particular who have given their ideas and countless hours of sincere effort to the daily business of handling most of the matters which were involved in blending this construction project into the total picture of the school. The Woodstock Academy is indeed fortunate to have these men on its team. There are some very good reasons why both Mr. Walker and Mr. Wilde are so much a part of this institution.

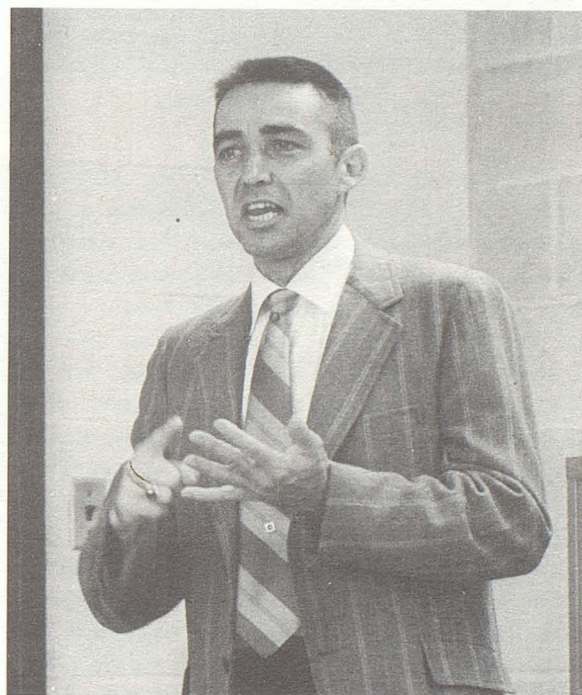

MR. ALLAN D. WALKER

Mr. Allan D. Walker is a graduate of Woodstock Academy, class of 1950. He joined the Academy teaching staff fourteen years ago. He presently serves this institution as Headmaster, as he has for eleven years. He has also been a teacher of history for the Academy, a coach of soccer, basketball and baseball and once director of athletics. He lives the school business both day and night, all the year round. We can be proud that our school's top administrator is also recognized nationally as a "school-man" in that he serves as a member of the Board of Directors on the National Association of Secondary School Principals. He is also secretary of the Connecticut Association of Secondary Schools.

Mr. Robert Wilde has been a part of the Woodstock Academy for twelve years. He presently serves this institution as Director of Business Affairs. His degree of involvement in the Academy and the town of Woodstock itself might best be judged by the breadth of his ambitions. Few people have extended themselves to the degree and with the success that he has in these last twelve years. He has served — teacher of business education and mathematics, basketball coach, director of athletics — and continues to serve — fire marshal for the town of Woodstock; Captain, Muddy Brook Fire Department; Treasurer, Quinebaug Valley Conference; Secretary, Eastern Connecticut Soccer Officials Association; member of the Executive Committee Basketball Officials Association; Academy representative on the field house building committee; Director, Woodstock Agricultural Society (Woodstock Fair); and is an active member of the Connecticut Education Data Processing Association.

To these men and to the many, many Woodstock Academy alumni and friends who have made this field house a reality, we thank you.

MR. ROBERT WILDE

Though the field house is both a classroom facility and a physical education facility, it would appear appropriate at this time to introduce you to the two individuals who are responsible for keeping the physical education facility in extensive use.

MRS. CECELIA INGRAHAM

Mrs. Cecelia Ingraham of Dudley, Massachusetts, is now in her seventh year serving as girl's physical education instructor at the Academy. Mrs. Ingraham has attended Worcester State College in Worcester, Mass., for enrichment courses in physical education but is without question a most noteworthy self-made teacher. An outstanding golfer and bowler, she has a way of giving her own enjoyment of active involvement in physical education activities to her students. Her enthusiasm as Woodstock Academy's physical education "lady" is of unmatched quality. With the completion of the field house, she looks forward to the expansion of the girls' intra-murals program, the hosting of sports' days and play days with other schools, and the possibility of holding a girls' basketball tournament at the Academy.

MR. DOUGLAS PECK

Mr. Douglas Peck of Woodstock is now in his eighth year as a member of the Academy staff. Mr. Peck presently serves as our Director of the division of health, physical education, recreation and athletics. During his first three years at the Academy he served as teacher of English, and he became the boys' physical education instructor and assistant to the athletic director with the institution of boys' physical education classes five years ago. A graduate of Tufts University, Medford, Mass., Mr. Peck has continued his graduate education work at the University of Connecticut. One can certainly measure this man's value to the Academy by his degree of involvement in all recreational and athletic activities conducted here. He teaches physical education during the normal school day and coaches athletic teams during the late afternoon and early evening hours. His is certainly a life of school activity, year round. His summer sailing program has met with tremendous success for the past three years and continues to show signs of expansion. Mr. Peck looks forward to the completion of the field house with ideas of a greater diversity of athletic facilities available to our students, and in particular to the scheduling of girls' and boys' physical education classes at the same time.

Random Thoughts from the Headmaster's Desk

The completion of the field house is, of course, the major item of interest on the campus, closely followed by the addition of a hundred students bringing our student body to a total of 471 with a correspondingly larger faculty. You have no doubt read in other places of the many changes made possible by the addition of this marvelous facility which of course brings major gains to several departments, most notably new quarters for the home economics department and the entire business department, and considerably improved space for the art department and the mathematics classes. We anticipate, of course, that athletics, both extra-mural and intra-mural will reap significant benefits and that the girls' program can now be expanded to the point that it needs to be. We at the school are most especially appreciative of the marvelous support demonstrated by alumni and parents in seeing this venture to fruition.

The larger enrollment and greater variety in the faculty has brought us benefits in many ways, allowing us to better schedule students, expand course offerings, and to make better use of the talents of the faculty.

Our Pink House seminar which is being conducted by Mrs. Rabinowitz and the addition of Paul Lynn as a part time instructor in the pottery department cast us in the direction which I hope we can continue to expand. We are particularly anxious to make use of the vast resources available in the communities that we serve and to bring them and their expertise into the school house or to bring the youngsters to those resources whenever and wherever possible.

The alumni and friends of the Academy continue to play a significant role in its growth and development. We are most anxious that you participate, become involved, give us your ideas, thoughts and notions.

The reorganization of the school day, and indeed the school year, is becoming ever increasingly more necessary.

It would be most helpful to those of us in the school administration and to the Board of Trustees if many more alumni would attend the annual meeting of the corporation which is always held in the last week in August. I hope that you will all watch for the notice and note that any person who is 21 years old and who has completed at least one year's worth of credit at the Woodstock Academy is eligible to come to the meeting and to vote. The members of the corporation are indeed the parent and governing body and should take advantage of this opportunity to make their wishes known.

In a similar vein, it is helpful to the school if parents become more involved in the institution and more interested in what is going on and give to us, and particularly to me, their ideas of what we're doing well and perhaps what they'd like to see improved.

I hope our entire community which we serve will be thinking during this coming year of many courses, volunteers, part-time faculty and how we can get the community involved.

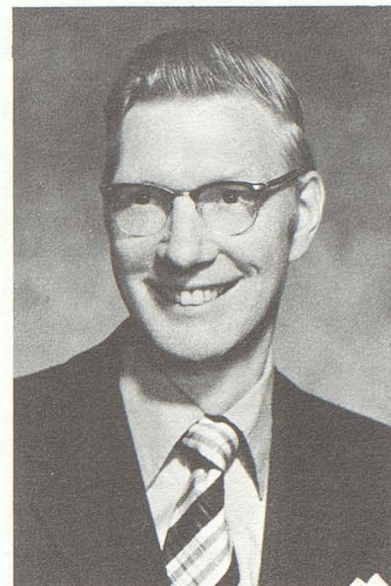

How do you react to the notion that the school should be open from seven o'clock in the morning to eleven at night for people of all ages and the facilities and personnel should be there for the use of anyone who wants to learn something new or different or exciting?

In these immensely difficult times for secondary schools the Woodstock Academy continues to be blessed with a fine student body, sent from some wonderful towns where they are raised by an outstanding group of parents. We are indeed privileged to be in a position to work with such a fine group of young people. Our unique position and our unique organization has helped us to attract a first-rate faculty and to develop a fine institution. The addition of some magnificent facilities has put us in an enviable position.

My telephone is listed in the book and I am as near as the closest mailbox. I hope to be hearing from more of you during the coming year. Best wishes to you all for a happy and successful year.

Trustee's Report

by WILLIAM O. JOHNSON

Past years of making good foundations to build on has resulted in major growth in many areas of the Academy. We will have all of our business, data processing, home economics and physical education courses in our new field house for the 1971-72 academic year. This has been a long time in coming and we greatly appreciate your support in making it a reality. We plan to have an open house and dedication of the field house this fall. I am also happy to report that the short term money for construction was obtained at 2.29 per cent which was much lower than we anticipated.

Additions to our art and band programs in the last two years has resulted in great enthusiasm among many students. Our science department will have a new lab along with other new equipment such as a laser unit, etc. We are striving to make our young people's years at the Academy meaningful and relevant, and to provide a basic foundation for further education, work and family.

For at least the academic years of 1971-72 and 1972-73 we will have approximately 90 students from Dudley, Mass. join us. Our new facilities enable us to handle these additional students, giving us better and broader scheduling and curriculum, plus economic gains.

The growth in our endowment fund the past fiscal year, ending June 30, 1971, was $96,407.85. We feel the Boston Company has done well for us in their professional management of this fund. The debt on the Bowen building was paid off the past year, and substantial assistance came from you. We are especially grateful for the $14,200 in bequests over the last two years, and the more than $1,500 in memorial gifts during the immediate past year. In the category of financial pledges, we especially recognize and appreciate the substantial gift of $20,000 from The Woodstock Lions Club.

I want to emphasize the great effort that our faculty made this past year. Their cooperation, effort and concern for young people is outstanding. I honestly believe we could match them with any faculty of the best schools in the country and we'd come away with the honors and awards. The new reorganization of administration and administrative procedures has now been operating through a school year and is certainly proving its worth.

Teamwork is what has given the Woodstock Academy this fine year of growth to provide a sound education for our young people for both today and the world of tomorrow that they will lead. This teamwork comes from the faculty, trustees, parents, alumni and students who have been challenged to put their best foot forward and reach higher. We pledge to continue our best for our young people. Are you doing your share?

Valedictory Address

by NANCY SANDBERG

Mr. Walker, members of the administration, Mr. Johnson, members of the Board of Trustees, faculty, parents, friends, and fellow members of the Class of 1971.

1984 is only thirteen years away. Orwell's cold, impersonal, dehumanized world of Big Brother and the telescreen are quickly moving in on us. The earth's population is now 3.6 billion. By 1985, even with careful birth control applied, scientists expect the overwhelming number of nine billion people to inhabit the earth.

The United States of America is the richest, most powerful, and most technologically advanced nation in the world today. We have come a long way since Morse's telegraph and Janssen's microscope. Recently at the University of California, a team of physicists have created a new element for the periodical chart, No. 105, called hahnium. Ghiorso, the team leader said we might be in the midst of an "element explosion," predicting that No. 106 and No. 107 might not be far behind. In 1969 we landed a man on the moon for the first time, and returned him safely to earth. Now it's possible that we will set up a space station on the moon so studies can be made of man's response to zero gravitation over long periods. This station would also serve as a stopping-station on a trip to Mars. During the summer of 1971 Mars will pass within 3.5 million miles of the Earth—its closest approach until 1986. Taking advantage of this, the United States has attempted for the first time to place two Mariner spacecraft in orbit about Mars. Future missions are also planned for Jupiter, Venus, and Mercury.

Scientists are facing more problems now than ever before, including one big moral dilemma. Of all the illnesses that afflict mankind, roughly one-fourth have a hereditary origin. The ethical problem of genetic engineering is one that has to be faced. How far should scientists (who are only human and therefore often fallible) be allowed to go in modifying human structure, and behavior? Scientists plan to learn how to modify these genes. But could scientists know what they're doing if they started to tamper with the makeup of humanity, or dare they even try?

Can science alone answer all of life's questions? According to a French biologist, Jacques Monod, old ethical philosophies and religions should be ended, and there should be new ethics developed, based entirely on knowledge. In his view, scientific knowledge has proved that there is no purpose to human history, and that chance alone determines evolution. I do not agree with Monod. I believe that there is a definite purpose for living and that human history is not just by chance.

Science is far from infallible. Our science, which has saved many lives by human organ transplants, now may have to lower the birth-rate further to allow for the lengthened life-span. We have satellites and jet-planes to help bridge the globe, yet there is a lack of communication among people because they are wrapped up in their own world. While our factories are turning out cars, soaps, and detergents, they are doing more harm than good by polluting our earth. We are producing a flood of materials that cannot be broken down and recycled. Human society is more computerized and automated than ever. There is more knowledge today than ever before, yet a great part of the American population is illiterate.

Salutatory Address

by DEBRA HERINDEEN

Mr. Walker, Mr. Johnson, members of the faculty, friends, and graduates of 1971.

In 1776, our forefathers left us heirs to the greatest country in all creation. In our lifetime, however, we hear her maligned and criticized, called a country of warmongers, or corrupt politicians and beserk judges, and a land where the people will do anything for monetary gain. Has this country changed from the glorious land of the free and the brave, or can it be that her people have changed?

Our country has given us material comfort beyond description, and natural resources without limit. We have accepted them as our due, and wasted them out of existence. We have allowed ourselves to be mesmerized by those very comforts, into forgetting the duties that accompany an inheritance such as ours.

A few years ago, John F. Kennedy handed to each of us a torch of freedom, a torch to be carried, to be nurtured, to be held high. Have we taken the challenge of freedom? Do we all know what it means to accept the challenge, or have we failed, and in so failing, have we let our beloved country become the butt of international criticism?

At Woodstock Academy, I have learned to think, to discern, to weigh values, and to respect the other man's opinions, whether or not they agree with mine. This is the education that must guide my life and make me a decent and good citizen. It is thus that each of us should take the torch of freedom, on the road of daily life, thinking things through, giving another man the benefit of the doubt, putting party politics in the background, for the common good. We must see that America can never be great again unless her people are aware of the responsibilities of freedom. Americans have sat too long by their cozy firesides and their cool blue pools. It is time for us to wake and listen, listen to everyone and everything, and weigh daily values as though our lives depended on them, because they do. It is time to listen to dissent, and consent, because both have their weight and importance. It is time to read editorials and listen to speeches and harken to the voices of our representatives in Congress, with an eye to making them keep their campaign promises, which is why we elect them in the first place.

Freedom is a right to choose — whether it be your breakfast cereal, or what time you will retire, or something of even greater portent. Freedom is also a burden, to be free you must care enough, and to care enough you must be aroused from the lethargy of the fireplace, and the pool and the apathy of laissez-faire. Free people have to write their congressmen saying whether or not they approve of measures to be voted on. Free people have to attend town meetings, and speak up when things are going to affect their lives. Free people cannot sit with folded hands and say, "Let THEM do it, they know best!" It is the duty of free people to know what is best, and to make it known together.

When a judge in New Haven goes on public record to say that two people cannot get a fair trial anywhere in America, and sets them free, it is time for free Americans to start thinking: "Could it ever happen to me?" This is America! Unfair trials were always things you saw in those movies about the Communist regimes.

Free people must let themselves be just to each other, unprejudiced, seeing both sides of

It is, indeed, with pride that I share the following letter with you.

The letter was sent on June 3, 1971, to Mr. Thomas Juko, Director of Academic Affairs at The Academy. Its author, Mrs. Ellen Polinsky, is a supervisor of practicing teachers from The University of Connecticut. Mrs. Polinsky has visited The Academy quite frequently during the past three years to observe and aid student teachers working with Academy students under the direction of our own faculty members. I wish to thank both Mr. Juko and Mrs. Polinsky for granting their permission for me to share this letter with readers of THE GLEANER.

Editor

Dear Mr. Juko,

I have just completed all of the paper work and final grading for this year's student teaching supervision, and as I reflected on the total experience, I felt that I must take a few minutes to tell you how much I enjoyed working with you and Mr. Smith, and how impressed I am with Woodstock Academy. In this busy world we too often take the time to criticize and find fault, but too rarely take the time to praise, where praise is due.

In the last three years while being a University Supervisor for the University of Connecticut I have visited over thirty secondary schools in the state. Many of them had magnificent physical plants, modern multimedia equipment, and ambitious and far reaching curriculum; but few were operating on an educational level that was superior to that which I observed at Woodstock Academy. I know that you face the same problems that are common to public education everywhere, but I believe that if you have not found all of the answers yet, at least you are looking in the right direction. Your ability to serve your students well is your greatest strength. This strength is derived from the relative smallness of your student body, and the dedication of your teachers and professional staff. Your students are not meaningless names on a series of class rosters, and because of this they seem to thrive in the environment which you have created. It is my strong belief (and it seems to be one that is held by your administration) that the most advanced machinery and most modern methods are still no substitute for concerned, enthusiastic, and informed staff members.

Perhaps the greatest compliment which I can pay to Woodstock Academy is to tell you that I have two children, and I hope that someday they will be able to go to a high school as fine as Woodstock Academy.

Sincerely yours,

Ellen Polinsky

ROSELAND SEMINAR

FOR WOODSTOCK

Once again the "Pink House" is a part of the GLEANER, and very much a part of the Academy. This year, for the first time, Academy students may enroll in an elective history course and find their classroom across the common inside the "Pink House." The purpose of this course is to give students a genuine opportunity to study Roseland Cottage and other aspects of local history.

Each member of the seminar will choose his own local history topic, will investigate the available source material and will prepare a paper or project. Each student will share the results of his research with the others during one seminar session. Hopefully, the topics chosen will deal with historical material that has never before been studied. If that is so, then the students will be involved in the "real nitty-gritty" of historical research. They will not be looking for one "right answer," but rather collecting and analyzing local data.

Possible topics for the papers are: local architecture; 19th century Fourth of July celebrations in Woodstock; schools in Woodstock; taped interviews with people who worked for the Bowen family at Roseland; a study of those who signed the 19th century guest book at Roseland. Sources which may be used are family records, official town records, personal interviews, 19th and early 20th century newspapers. If the students feel that their work has been successful, every effort will be made for them to share the results of their research with other students or Woodstock residents.

The course is being offered under the able direction of Mrs. Polly Rabinowitz. Mrs. Rabinowitz graduated cum laude from Smith College in Massachusetts in 1966, and received her M. A. T. from Harvard Graduate School of Education, Cambridge, Mass., in 1967. Her professional experiences include the teaching of Latin, History, and English, and she has also served as both an administrative assistant and as director of the audio-visual department for the Educational Development Corporation of Newton, Mass. Shortly before she and her husband accepted their present position as curators of the "Pink House," Mrs. Rabinowitz was co-director of The Old Time Youngsters' Program for Old Sturbridge Village of Sturbridge, Mass. The offering of this seminar is her way of expressing her feeling that high school students need to leave the four walls of their schools and study or work with members of the community. We all certainly welcome this new educational venture and look forward to the time when many of us, who are old-time students at heart, may join with present Academy students by enrolling in this and other similar course offerings.

Yes, 1984 is only thirteen years away. But thirteen need not be an ominous and unlucky number. These could be the best years ever spent on this earth. Computers have made it possible for people to have more leisure time, and hopefully this time will be used to work for mankind's betterment. There is only one future, and it is up to us to decide whether it will be a future of chaos or cooperation. God made man, not a machine, to have dominion over the earth and beasts. Don't let yourself be dehumanized. Don't let 1984 happen.

waste any more lives without a word from each one of us voicing our approval, or disapproval. There are so many ways we can move together — picking up a scrap of paper is a move to help the ecology of our beautiful world, shaking a black brother's hand, thanking a policeman for a job well done. This is freedom moving through the people — people who care enough to deserve to be free.

Education is not only in the school, education is in the neighbor's opinion, in the newspaper articles, and in the books we can so easily reach — and education should never end for free men. The more you and I know, the freer you and I will be.

It takes time and effort and even faith. And it takes two guiding principles which could motivate us, principles handed down many years ago by Him who heard the voices crying in the wilderness and who told them, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and, "Thou shalt not kill." It is now as though those words had been spoken to us — now, at this time, to point out how we can again become the glorious defenders of universal liberty and be the first to give peace a chance.

everyone, giving fair judgement. I recall on these lines, hippies, who have been detested by the greater number of people, since they began their peace signs all over our land. And yet, was it not that very peace sign which called our attention to the fact that peace was a mighty desirable thing, and something we might like to have around us? Did they not start the march to end the war? And their desire to live in communes, I wonder if it signifies the frustration of youth, at the waning of American family life? Their appearance rubs against the grain but we turn and look at them as we would no cleancut man in a business suit, so they accomplish their goals — they call attention to themselves, and we become aware of their motivations. Let us not join them, but let us listen to them, use our own experience against theirs and those of other minority groups, making a better world for ourselves by the same token.

Yours is the voice of freedom, let it be heard. Let your voice be a tool to stop the screaming of a brother on the faraway battlefields, in Vietnam. Or if you prefer to stay and fight, let them hear you call for a winning war! Let us not

MR. HENRY J. POTTER celebrated his 90th birthday last February. A party was held for him in Windsor, Conn., a town in which he had resided nearly 47 years, when he left in May, 1960, to live with his daughter and her family. As usual, he expects to spend July and August with them at Martha's Vineyard this summer.

1899

MRS. BESSIE BARBER WILLIAMS would be pleased to have friends call at any time at her home in Sprucedale.

MRS. OLIVE A. PAINE writes, "I have read with interest the recent report of the Association relative to the building of the Field House. Often I wish I were near enough to see the flourishing Academy and to help personally with carrying out plans for continuing growth. My best wishes to the staff and student body, and my appreciation to the officers and committee members of the Alumni Association whose tireless efforts keep the school serving the community so efficiently. May you all have a most satisfying year. Sincerely yours, Olive A. Paine." (Address: 606 West Pennsylvania Ave., Urbana, Ill. 61801.)

MR. GARDNER RICHARDSON continues to operate the old family farm known as "Plaine Hill." His uncle, Herbert W. Bowen, in his book "Recollections Diplomatic and Undiplomatic" writes in the concluding paragraph - "I had acquired while I was still in the service the Estate in Woodstock known as "Plaine Hill" which had been taken from Nature by my ancestors in 1686 and which has never been out of the possession of my family." The present owner is in the tenth generation since the family acquired the land.

MR. JAMES V. PERRIN lives in Quebec, Canada, and has made one trip to Connecticut this year. He has one child and two grandchildren.

1903

V. AD. F. W. ROCKWELL, U.S.N. (Ret.) of St. Simons Island, Georgia writes: "Congratulations on the progress made. My love and respect for old "Prof." Hall is still fresh in my memory."

1906

MISS ETHEL E. UPHAM writes, "When one has been an alumna for 65 years she is less likely to have news than memories! When I was a pupil the school body numbered 50-60, and a graduating class of ten was a large one. The principal and two assistants taught us, and the school day began at 9 a.m. and closed at 4 p.m.

MRS. ELIZABETH CARR GROSJEAN living in Watkins Glen, N. Y., is outliving her old friends. She visited Woodstock in June, '71. Her hobby is "keeping young at heart." She has one son, Paul Grosjean of Woodstock, five grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

MRS. LOTTIE HOWARD SPALDING was happily surprised last summer with a visit from her son, William, from Granada Hills, California, who was on a business trip to New York. Her daughter, Elizabeth Guertin, with whom she lives, planned a Spalding "get-together" while he was here.

1907

MRS. MARIE NELSON GOSS, living in the same apartment in Hartford, spent two months, January and February, in St. Petersburg, Florida. She loved to stay at the Mount Vernon Hotel which has 70 rooms and 70 baths.

1908

MRS. HARRIET NELSON JONES toured Nova Scotia by bus last summer, 1970. "A most interesting and delightful tour," she writes. And in September she also visited the Pennsylvania Dutch Country for four days.

MR. HARRY L. TRASK had a friend take him on a tour of Woodstock, West Dudley, Southbridge, Westford and Union this past year. He writes, "It was surprising to see the number of places gone and the new ones built." He had visits from people that dropped in who had been away from six to twelve years, and one who had been away for twenty years. One came back after twelve years to stay.

1909

MRS. EDITH BRIGGS FITTS of Portland, Maine, has taken study courses in Stencilling and Decorating Country Tin as her hobby is Painting and Crafts. She has one son, Spencer, an Electrical Engineer; and two grandchildren. Mrs. Fitts is anticipating a trip to Cape Breton, N. S.

1911

MRS. BLANCHE PERRY BOSWORTH sends her greetings and best wishes to Academy friends. She always enjoys seeing and hearing from friends. Residing in Pomfret Center she keeps busy with church and town activities.

MRS. HELEN PERLEY CORNELL was the honored guest of the Fourth of July Jamboree in East Woodstock this year. She was commended for her faithful and dedicated service to the Town of Woodstock as our Town Clerk for more than thirty years.

MRS. GLADYS SHELTON PRESCOTT writes an interesting summary of the big highlight of this past year: "It was a very happy experience for me to attend Graduation Exercises this year, especially inasmuch as my grandniece, Prudence Jean Sheldon, was a member of the Graduating Class. With the exception of one Alumni Banquet many years ago, it was my first and only return to those "hallowed surroundings" since my own graduation day fifty-nine years ago! (I had to do the arithmetic on paper to believe it!) I noted changes, of course, especially those walls which used to be covered with ivy, one being planted each year by the graduating class. However, to see the buildings and grounds so well cared for, plus the Bowen Building and the new Field House being constructed, was very pleasing and represents growth and progress. I am proud to be a graduate of Woodstock Academy, and happy to have my grandniece a graduate, and my grandnephew, Bruce Wayland Sheldon, has the privilege of attending the Academy where my brother and I graduated so many years ago. It was also a pleasure to have a chat with Harriet Sampson Pitt, whom I had not seen since our years together at W. A. It was a happy and memorable day for me. I wish my granddaughter, Susan, might be a student there. She enters the sixth grade in the Fall. She is indeed a great source of happiness for me and to have my home here in Durham, New Hampshire, with my son and daughter-in-law in an apartment of my own, is a very happy way to spend retirement years. My best wishes to my Alma Mater and all who are in any way connected with it."

MRS. OLIVE WHITNEY KEECH and her husband are still enjoying retirement and welcome their friends at 15 Myers Street, Putnam, Conn.

MRS. JARDA CARLSON LINDE enjoyed two vacation trips this year; one to Rockford, Illinois, and the other to Belfast, Maine.

MRS. GRACE HAWKINS HEALEY's hobby is playing Bridge. She has one child, and three grandchildren.

MRS. AGNES WHITE STONE of Holiday, Florida, is still interested in Woodstock even though she has not been north for two years. Two great-grandsons are in the Woodstock Schools and she expects they will one day be Academy students. "That will make the sixth generation in the family to attend the Academy," she proudly writes.

From HARRIET SAMPSON PITT: "The alluring prospect of joining two college friends in Leonard and Virginia Woolf's cottage sent me off to England last September. Bloomsbury handicrafts were all about us: portraits and sketches on the walls, needlework on chair seats and fire-screens, signed ceramics, and in the study all the books published by the Hogarth Press. It was a joy also to motor about beautiful Sussex and to have a week of theatre-going in London."

1916

MRS. BERNICE SANGER GRAVES sends her best wishes to her classmates and friends. She will be going to Maryland and Virginia in August this year. Her hobby is her flower garden which needs constant care. She has two daughters and two sons, all in their 40's; seventeen grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

"To those of you who came for our 45th Reunion I'll say, 'We had a jolly good time, didn't we?' And to those of you who did not come I'll say, 'You don't know what you missed.' It seems strange, but the farther away you live, the easier it seems to get here. Where were several of our local members?

The party started at four p.m. at the home of Vilhelm and SARAH HEALEY PEDERSEN in South Woodstock, adjourning to the W. A. for the Banquet at seven p.m., and it was a delicious turkey dinner served family style; quick service and a cool and comfortable evening, couldn't be better. We still had not had enough so returned to the Pedersen's home for more coffee, visiting, etc. Those present were: LAURA CROSS PRINGLE and husband, George from Florida; Mr. and Mrs. NILS SHENNING from Manchester; RAYMOND ANDERSON from Glastonbury; SELMA JOHNSON from Mistletoe, Kentucky; ELEANOR PETERSON LAWTON from Alexander's Lake, and EDITH NELSON COLBURN, and SARAH HEALEY PEDERSEN from Woodstock.

After dinner we noted the presence of Miss Ethel Upham, one of our Academy teachers, and Miss Helen Bjornberg whom some of us had as eighth grade teacher.

We look forward to a gala time in 1976 which will mark our half century celebration. Hope to see you ALL then!! SARAH PEDERSEN, Class Secretary. No news from class members with the exception of MRS. LAURA REYNOLDS DELAURA who moved last July from Benson, Arizona to Carson City, Nevada. Her husband, Gil was working at Lake Tahoe, and they, along with their two daughters, Nancy and Betsey, were enjoying living in that part of our great country."

THURSTON and EVELYN EDDY celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on October 20th, 1970 with a family get-together at their home in East Woodstock. Previous to that date, from July 21 to August 16, they took a camping trip out to Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. Highlights of the trip were: The Grand Canyon, both North and South Rims; Glen Canyon Dam and Lake Powell in Page, Arizona; and Mesa Verde National Park and the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

This summer their oldest son, Ralph, was married on July 31st in Stamford, Conn. to Deborah Ann Rich. They are residing in New Britain, and this fall Ralph will return to law school at the University of Connecticut in West Hartford for his third and final year, and his wife will commence her duties as Art Consultant in the Newington school system.

We look forward to June, 1972 when we will be celebrating our 30th Class Reunion and will then truly have some exciting news. Fellow classmates, please remember to come! The 25th Reunion of the Class of 1946:

As banquet time drew near, DARWIN CLARK and BOB FRINK began crossing off names hoping as many as possible would be able to attend.

Moments of apprehension as we gathered together. Many of us were able to meet at the Academy. ARLINE STARR HAMBLEY came from East Hampton, Mass., her first reunion in twenty-five years; JEAN KENYON DEBELL from Somers, Conn.; and JOHN WELLS from Norwich; HELEN DVORAK SHIRSHAC drove in from Willimantic; DARWIN CLARK from Eastford; BOB FRINK, RUSSELL HIBBARD and ALDEN SHEPARD FARBER; and JOEL and RUTH LOGEE EDDY from Woodstock.

RUTH SIMPSON TAMERIS traveled the greatest distance, coming from Grand Rapids, Michigan; and GEORGE JOHNSON from Pomfret Center.

After a delicious meal, we then met at Darwin and Martha Clark's home in Eastford, where husbands and wives had a chance to meet and we all had an opportunity to renew old friendships. A lot of old stories and pranks were relived.

A guessing game when EDITH STAHL SAUVE from Windsor Locks, and JUNE BOSWORTH STAVESKI came in later, waiting to see if they remembered us all.

Many years have passed and time has wrought many changes, but to us it was a great reunion and we all enjoyed it!

MRS. RUTH SIMPSON TAMERIS vacationed throughout Michigan and New England. She has one son, Robert. This summer she has been participating in National Science Foundation Institute for Social Studies.

MRS. ARLINE STARR HAMBLEY drove to Mexico City with eleven Senior Scouts in June, 1970. Her daughter, Diana, graduated from Oberlin College '71, and became engaged February 14th to Jeffrey Weaner of Defiance, Ohio; and her daughter, Carole, was 1st runner-up in the Massachusetts State Junior Miss Pageant (Easthampton's Junior Miss), graduated from Easthampton High, '71.

MR. DOUGLAS CUTLER had the opportunity this summer to work on the staff of Senator Lowell Weicker. As an intern in the Senator's office, Doug's responsibility was to coordinate all the press information for the Connecticut Summer Government Intern Program sponsored this year by Senator Weicker, Congressmen Stewart B. Doug wrote weekly press releases for the more than 400 young people between the ages of 15 and 21, who came to Washington over a nine-week period to receive an in-depth look at our government in action.

Among his other responsibilities were the taping of radio interviews with the interns each week so that they may be aired over local radio stations in Connecticut and handling all the picture arrangements for each weekly group; at times Doug wrote
