Three Enthusiastic Meetings Greet the M. O. L. Candidate for Mayor.

M'CLELLAN'S NAME HISSED.

Ridgway Referred to as a Disgrace | Lucien S. Bayliss Making a Hustto Brooklyn.

William R. Hearst faced an audience of about 3,000 persons last night in the old Montauk Theatre, and when he entered the building he was cheered for nearly four minutes. Then he read his type-written speech, which occupied about twenty minutes. His reference to McClellan and the Remsen gas bill elicited hisses, and the applause on the conclusion of his speech did not subside until he had left the building to take in the Prospect Hall meeting, in South Brooklyn. He spoke also in Waverly First in order came military Hall, Waverly and Myrtle avenues.

There were many more women in the old Montauk auditorium last night than on the occasion of the McClellan meeting and there was a larger percentage of young men in the audience. All present found American flags plentiful throughout the house and these were waved repeatedly at the head of the tick-et during his stay. C. Augustus Havi-land presided. He said that in Kings County the Municipal Ownership League had 21 Assembly district leaders of its own, but no bosses. He declared that Hearst was responsible to himself for what he said he would do when elected speech when Hearst arrived.

Mayor. Bird S, Coler and "Farmer" Scott spoke prior to Hearst's arrival, and Henry A. Powell, a well-known Republican, was in the middle of his Municipal Ownership

Mr. Coler said that he had fought Mc-Carren ever since he started in politics. 'I fought his black flag whenever I saw in the Board of Estimate," said Mr. oler, "and when I ran for Governor it Coler, was McCarren who beat me by his work in Albany and Rennselaer counties. When the Mayor asked me to lead the fight against McCarren in Brooklyn I thought he was on the level. But the Mayor backed down for obvious reasons afterward, and then I decided that a man like that ought not to be Mayor.' Mr. Hearst referred to the adjournment of the Insurance Investigating Commit-tee until after Election, after it had been announced that Murphy and McCarren were to be called before it to tell where they got "it." He declared that Messra Ryan, Belmont and Brady had contributed thousands to Murphy's campaign fund to beat him.

"The money they have taken from you, my friends," he asserted, "they now prose to use against you.'

stack on graft, declaring that "McCarret nominates Ridgway, a disgrace to Brook-lyn," "Murphy fattens on corrupt contracts," and McClellan signs the Remsen gas steal, all declaring that no amount of clamor either from without or within the party will make them follow a different course.

"My friends," he said, "I am proud of the cause we battle for. It is the people's cause. I am proud of the friends who have rallied round me. They are the people's friends. I am proud of the enemies who oppose me. They are the people's enemies. We will fight those enemies together, and triumph over them, they may be. At the Prospect Hall meeting Mr. Hearst started to read a batch of newsclippings regarding the insurance investigation and got a surprise. He announced that one of them which he was about to read was from the "Eagle." stantly the place was in an uproar.

"Scab! Scab! Scab!" yelled the crowd.

'Don't read it." Mr. Hearst seemed to see that he was on the verge of a "break" and crumpled the clipping unread in his hands. This aused great applause.

John Ford in his speeches at the same meetings replied to Mayor McClellan's assertion that the city did not have money to build municipal subways by saying that the constitutional amend to be voted on this fall exempting water bonds from the city's debt capacity would give the city a freer hand and that common honesty would add $25,000. 000 more to the city's borrowing capacity

FRANK SPERRY DEFENDS ASSEMBLYMAN FOELKER

Fifth District Republican Says Candidate Has Made an Enviable Record.

Frank Sperry, one of the eminent Republicans of the Eastern District, last night sent this letter to C. Augustus Haviland in reference to attacks made on Assemblyman Otto Foelker, who is a candidate for re-election in the Fifth Assembly District:

"C. Augustus Haviland, Municipal Ownership League, Brooklyn, N. Y.:
"My Dear Mr. Haviland—I am glad that you spoke to me as you did this morning when we met in Fulton street with reference to Otto G. Foelker, who has the combined nomination of the Republican party and the Municipal Own-ership League for Assembly in the Fifth District of Kings County, which is my nome district, "I am glad for the reason that it gives me an opportunity to thank you for the endorsement of the league and also gives me an opportunity to correct the impression made upon your mind, and, I doubt not, upon the minds of others, by publications in certain newspapers to the ef-fect that in the State Legislature he voted for the Mortgage Tax bill. He not only voted against that measure, but was so unalterably opposed to it that he re-fused to enter the regularly called Republican caucus on tax measures and consistently opposed the bill at every stage of its progress.

"He also opposed the bill to tax stock transfers. "I enclose herewith a clipping of the 26th inst., stating Mr. Foelker's record on various important measures. He is clean, bright, intelligent, independent and active; and is just the sort of man you would like to represent you in any capacity. It is a matter of personal pride and gratification to me that the Assembly-man from the district which I once had the honor to represent in the Legislature was able to make, in the first year of his incumbency, such an enviable record.

'Tis true, a new star has risen in the firmament, William Randolph Hearst, that gave the candidates some uneasiness. Put your shoulder to the wheel. William M. Ivins is gathering recruits to his cause every day. If elected it means to this great city more bridges, more schools, cleaner streets, plenty of water, without frights of water famine as of late. Following him came George F. Elliot and in a stirring speech denounced Tamany as a whole for its trickery and underlying rottenness. He showed the evidence of McClellan's false promises; he blamed him for the bridge crush, and closed his remarks by urging the young

Other speakers were Lucien S. Bay-liss, nominee for Municipal Court Justice in the Sixth District. Mr. Bayliss got a particularly cordial reception. George A. Greene candidate for Assembly, and D. Gunther also got much applause. Lawyer John Kemble, the old Twentysecond Warder, came next, and in a most numorous way gave a discourse on some of the past "graft saints." William Burgess came next, on the "first vote." The final speaker of the evening was Joseph Anearn, who talked of organized labor and denounced Flakerty and his constituents.

The candidate first-spoke at Fifth avenue and Douglass street, Fifth avenue and Sixth street, Acme Hall, Seventh avenue and Ninth street, and the Lafayette Avenue Republican Club, at 139 Lafayette avenue, Ebstein, who was received with great applause, and spoke he received a salary of $5,000 a year, a set of resolutions being passed by the Board allowing him that much. Three or four years ago, giving as its reason a lack of funds, the Board passed another resolution reducing Dowling's salary to $4,200. Dowling protested, and submitted figures to the Board showing that it cost him more than this sum to pay his help. Dowling must pay the salaries of two assistant engineers, a fireman, a butler for the school hall, and several scrub women. His protest to the Board resulted in his salary being raised to $5,000, which is the amount he now receives.

This amount is insufficient if Dowling is to have anything left for himself, so, after protesting several times in he placed the matter in the hands of Max E. Lehman, an attorney, and instructed bim to bring suit against the Board of Education to compel them to pay him his original salary of $6,000. Dowling is a civil service employe and is classed as a competent engineer. Under the Civil Service rules the salary of an employe cannot be reduced without having his grade lowered, and this is the that was raised by Dowling's counsel yesterday.

Dowling's services have been highly satisfactory, and the school has been kept in excellent condition. In fact the Board of Education passed a set of resolutions in 1903 praising him for his work.
The question at issue is whether the Board of Education had the right to reduce his salary without preferring charges against him.

The case was argued before Justice Marean in the Equity Term of the Su-preme Court yesterday afternoon. Counsel was given until Wednesday to submit

Brooklyn that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists, and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else falls. Unlike other greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly baid. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist, and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." POLICE DISCOVER CLUE IN SUIT GASE MYSTERY

BOSTON, Oct. 28 .- Activity on the part of the police in their attempts to unravel the so-called suit case mystery has been renewed by the finding yesterday, in the water just below the new Charlestown bridge, of a suit case containing the arms and legs belonging to the young weman's torso found off Winthrep five weeks ago. With the find came the possession of the first tangible evidence which may lead to the identity of the young woman, consisting of three rings found upon the right hand, and these little objects are the sole hope of the police. Though there are no initials on any of the rings, there seems to be reasonable ground for expecting that some one who ground for expecting that some one who knew the young woman will remember the appearance of her rings and also the way she wore them and he able to identify the body by them. The three rings are not worth more than $6.

Meyer Rubin identified the suit case as a new one he sold on Sept. 19 to the same man who purchased from Joseph Berkman the suit case in which the torse Berkman the suit case in which the torse was found. The police have renewed the effort to find the head of the victim, and divers will to-day be sent down to examine the river bed all about the Charlestown bridge.
