fourteen years ago, a woman forty-six years old has asked for a summons for the man she says deceived her, for according to her story the man had represented to her that he was unmarried. A 14-year-old daughter also bears the name of O'Grady. That is not his name, and Magistrate Naumer, to whom the woman went to see if she could not make the man support her and her child, was surprised to recognize in the name the woman gave a man he knows well and who has a family and grown sons.

Mrs. O'Grady explained that she complained because the man hunted her to death. She had moved into houses only to find that this man owned them and forced her to move out.

The Once-a-Season Chance To-morrow.

Hats That Were $22.50 to $30 are $19.50.

Hats That Were $38 to $45 are $25.

The former prices hardly paid the cost of importing Hats. They were brought over as inspiration to our milliners, and we had no thought of profit on them. So the new prices mean even more economy than appears.

At the same time a number of beautiful Hats from our own workrooms are similarly reduced:

WANTS SUBWAY

Bridge.

FINISH ALL AT SAME TIME.

Not Necessary to Tear Down Fulton Street Buildings Now.

Abraham Abraham touched a new point, and an important one, in an interview with a Standard Union reporter this morning. He insisted upon haste. but cautioned the authorities that the subway connecting with Bridge No. 3 should be completed before the approach. "Not another moment should be lost," r. Abraham said, "in the construction of the Manhattan Bridge and the Flat-bush avenue extension, with its subway to the bridge. These two things every Brooklyn man should consider of vital importance to the welfare and future of his home borough.

The tremendous importance of Bridge No. 3 demands that it receive immediate, continual and sensible, business-like attention until it is completed. There should be haste, but every step should be under careful advisement, so that when the last rivet has been driven home in the completed bridge structure, the first cars will be systematically moving through the connecting Flatbush avenue extension subway, over the bridge and adequate approaches be finished on the Manhattan side. The Fulton street subway should be completed with connection to the bridge at Flatbush avenue and Fulton street.

"It will not be necssary to tear down the buildings on Fulton street that are now remunerative to the city, until it is known positively when the bridge itself completed. When that word is received, however, and that should be soon, let the approach be started at once. Let all work possible be done to push the subway and let all meet in completed state at a common time and no work be lest. It would be a mistake to finish the approach and then tear it down again to put in the subway connections to the said to-day that all civic bodies should work for the early completion of the new Manhattan Bridge, as it mean more to Brooklyn than any other single improvement contemplated. Mr. Coler made this declaration to a delegation of the Builders' Association headed by Congressman William M. Calder, who went to see the new Borough President to urge him to appoint an efficient Brooklynite as Superintendent of Build-ings. Mr. Coler said he would consult the Builders' Association before the appointment was made and urged them and all other civic bodies to take an interest in civic affairs.
