Fort Jones High School

The first high school in Fort Jones was a combination of high school and elementary school. It stood near the present community center building and was in use from 1917, until it burned in 1921. The structure was rebuilt after the fire. However, the high school was moved into a new building, the present high school, in 1922. This building has served the community and students for over fifty years! A new building did open for the 1975-1976 school term.
