Screenshot of the CSAM (Comprehensive System for Assessment Management) software interface. The interface shows a 'Teacher, Demo' window with a table of assessment results. The table has columns for 'Assessment Name', 'Score', 'Raw Score', 'Standard Score', and 'Percentile Rank'. The 'Assessment Name' column lists various tests like 'Phonological Awareness', 'Letter-Sound Correspondence', 'Word Recognition', 'Reading Comprehension', 'Math', and 'Science'. The 'Score' column shows scores for each test. The 'Raw Score' column shows scores for each test. The 'Standard Score' column shows scores for each test. The 'Percentile Rank' column shows scores for each test.

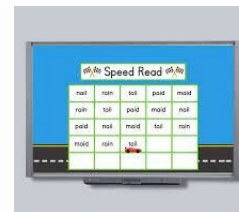

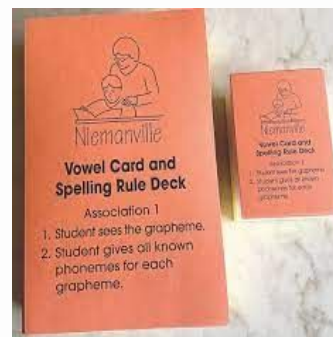

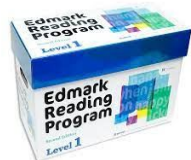

Assessment Name	Score	Raw Score	Standard Score	Percentile Rank
Phonological Awareness	10	10	10	10

Content for Learning Ally

Access to books is necessary for a child's development, not only as staring readers but as engaged, productive members of society.
When young readers own diverse, reflective texts, we increase the likelihood that these children will embrace lifelong reading. But it will take a village to make this happen.

Multisensory Strategies

Multisensory strategies are a component of multisensory structural language education which focuses on the structured, systematic, direct teaching of the organization of language. Multisensory strategies combine two or more of the senses simultaneously.
