Rice Master's Cohort Opportunity for CFISD

Rice's Center for Education seeks to create exponential change in districts by elevating cohorts of existing educators to the next level in their professional practice. Through this innovative approach, educators can deepen their knowledge and pedagogy while also gaining their principal certification.

Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) for Experienced Teachers + Principal Certification

Focused on building the skillsets needed to be an effective school administrator, the MAT equips educators with more than 2 years of classroom experience to be both instructional and organizational leaders while securing principal certification. Educators with a Bachelor's Degree, a 3.0 GPA or higher and 2 years teaching experience qualify.
