Dragon Hoops by Gene Luen Yang

In this dynamic graphic novel, Yang tells two intertwining stories. One is how his lack of interest in sports grew into a love of basketball, and the other is the fascinating history of the game and the positive impact it has had on people all over the world. As a high school computer science teacher, Yang has a front seat to the challenges and excitement surrounding a school basketball program. He uses this lens to gain information and add personal anecdotes to this enjoyable account.

Searching for Sylvie Lee by Jean Kwok

Jean Kwok's writing style is the perfect mix of storytelling, introspection, and descriptive prose. In this captivating read she follows an Asian-American family who lives in Queens, NY, as they deal with the sudden disappearance of Sylvie, the daughter who had spent her first several years of life living with relatives in the Netherlands. Romance, mystery, family dysfunction, discrimination. . .the well-drawn characters bring these and many other issues to life.
