AP Moore conducted a review of the recently implemented Tardy policy, and the Administration team has noted a positive change as they've observed a noticeable reduction in hallway congestion. The committee is unanimous in their agreement that the new policy is proving to be effective. AP Moore reported based on the review of Branching Minds, it is evident that teachers are actively contributing to its success.

In terms of student incentives, high-performing WIN classes are still receiving weekly rewards in the form of ice cream sundaes. We have scheduled the drawing for the next two bicycles to be at the end of the grading period. WIN curriculum will be transitioning from Reading to Math in November, aligning with our educational goals.

We are currently in the process of recruiting volunteers to assist with various campus duties, demonstrating our commitment to the improvement of our school environment. Regrettably, the Night School Intervention plan has not been approved at this time. The committee engaged in a productive discussion on exploring alternative options to support academically challenged students.

In a proactive move, a plan is in process to assign mentors to all high-risk students, ensuring they receive the necessary guidance and support. The committee members share a common desire to increase community involvement and support, and one of our initiatives involves seeking volunteers to attend Neighborhood Association meetings. Attendance concerns were also reviewed with the Committee by Travis Cheatham. Staff duty schedules were also discussed, the committee would like to establish a more structured schedule that will further address attendance issues.

Lastly, the Disney at Carver event will be held on 10/28/23. As an additional incentive, starting in November, there will be an opportunity for a luncheon with the administration.

The meeting adjourned at 6:45 pm.
