

Community Partnerships

The purpose of this document is to list any community organizations that may offer assistance to families. We don't individually support or recommend any specific organization.

Please reach out to your school guidance counselor, school nurse, or social worker if you have questions.

Here are some of the questions where you might be able to find a resource in this document.

How can I find additional food for my family?

How do I find health care services?

Who can I call if I can't pay my bills?

Where can I get help if there is a domestic violence issue in my home?

How can I get help filling out the FAFSA (financial aid) forms for college?

Where can I receive help from someone in my native language?

Is there a program for my family if I am no longer eligible for welfare benefits?

Where can I report child abuse or neglect?

Where do I go if my family becomes homeless?

Where can I find wraparound services for my child?

I am a grandparent taking care of my grandchildren. Are there resources available?

Where can I find low cost or free internet or phone services?

Is there a helpline specifically for women in crisis?

What is the substance abuse helpline?
