TYNGSBORO -- Greater Lowell Technical High School recently named its November Students of the Month, based on the characteristics of respect, effort, accountability, commitment and honesty in class and among their peers.

Adrian Delgado of Lowell is the Senior of the Month. He is an honor-roll student in the Engineering program and is president of the Class of 2019. He is a member of Project Purple, the Student Council and the spring team. He has participated in a number of community-service events, including Lowell's City of Lights Parade and Folk Festival, and has volunteered with Greater Lowell Tech's Back to School Night and Open House.

Adrian plans to attend college to become an English teacher. He was nominated for always having a positive attitude and always being willing to help.

Amy Toledo of Lowell is the Junior of the Month. She is an honor-roll student in the Medical Laboratory and Assisting program. She is a member of the National Technical Honor Society and recently participated in its Flowergram Fundraiser. She volunteers at Open House and assists with eighth-grade tours.

Amy plans to attend college to pursue a career in the medical field. She was nominated for always being respectful and showing great effort in all of her classes.

Emily Tran of Lowell is the Sophomore of the Month. She is in the Health Assisting and Pre Nursing program and has earned high honors. She is currently ranked 11th in the class of 2021.

Emily plans to attend college to become a veterinarian, nurse or pharmacist. She was nominated for being a respectful, polite and a hard-working student.

Peter Beaupre of Lowell is the Freshman of the Month. He is an honor-roll student and a member of the basketball team. He volunteers at Greater Lowell Tech soccer games and at his church, assisting with CCD classes.

Peter is interested in entering the HVAC-R program. He was nominated for being a hard-working and motivated student.
