

Greater Lowell Tech Construction Cluster builds support for Megan's House

Students from the Construction Cluster at Greater Lowell Technical High School in Tyngsboro have been hard at work the last few months completing plumbing, finish carpentry and painting on three buildings sponsored by Megan's House of Lowell as part of the school's house-building curriculum. Their experiences at the sites provided an authentic learning environment outside of the classroom that have prepared them for a variety of postsecondary opportunities in the construction fields. The Megan's House Foundation will use the proceeds from the sales of the homes to continue its mission of helping young women in the Lowell area recover from the grip of addiction.
