

GLTHS open house opens eyes for students, parents

TYNGSBORO — Greater Lowell Technical High School recently hosted an open house for eighth-grade students and their families.

The event provided an opportunity for GLTHS to demonstrate the unique education students receive. Parents met instructors, visited the 23 technical programs and learned about the admissions process.

During the month of December, Greater Lowell invited all of the district community middle schools and their students to attend a tour of the campus and facilities to learn more about the programs offered. The open house allowed parents to see the campus firsthand.
