TYNGSBORO -- Incoming freshmen at Greater Lowell Technical High School embarked upon their four years of high school with a welcome day at the school that provided a chance to tour the building and meet teachers, staff and administration.

Upper-class students provided activities throughout the day, including a scavenger hunt that led students through the 512,000-square-foot campus to help students navigate through the school, and prepared a spoof "project runway" production on appropriate attire for school.

In all, 570 students were accepted to the freshman Class of 2020, and there is currently a waiting list for those students not accepted. Rolling admissions allows Greater Lowell Tech to offer acceptance to those students qualify should a space should become available.
