

GLTHS student on to DECA Nationals

TYNGSBORO — Greater Lowell Technical High School's Marketing and Hotel & Lodging students competed at the recent DECA State Career Development Conference at Boston Marriott Copley Place.

Caitlyn Dion of Dracut won a first-place Achievement Award and a fourth-place trophy in Professional Selling. She also qualified for the International DECA National Career Development Conference in Nashville, Tenn., later this month.

Also, Destiny Callahan of Dunstable competed in Hotel and Tourism Professional Selling; Chantal Jackunchuck of Lowell competed in Retail Marketing; and Matilda Seam of Lowell competed in Hotel and Tourism Professional Selling.

DECA, an Association of marketing students, prepares high- school and college students for rewarding careers in marketing, management and entrepreneurship.

From left, Greater Lowell Tech students and DECA competitors Destiny Callahan of Dunstable, Matilda Seam of Lowell, Chantal Jackunchuck of Lowell and Caitlyn Dion of Dracut. Caitlyn has qualified for the DECA National Conference.

COURTESY PHOTO